"Abortion, Healing and Forgiveness:

A Conversation with Sally Thompson, Pres. of Urban Life Matters"

Saturday, November 21, 2015

11AM - 1PM, St. Augustine Church, 1501 W. Washington St.

African Americans are disproportionately impacted by abortion, the death penalty, and many quality of life issues in between. In short, we suffer from a culture of death. It's high time for a conversation ... about LIFE!!!

A native of Indianapolis, Sally Thompson is President of Urban Life Matters, an organization created to bring awareness of, facilitate healing from, and bring the value of life back from abortions; especially in urban communities across the nations.

Having experienced an abortion in her late twenties, Sally now seeks to help women (and men) make a better choice given the emotional and spiritual pain after abortion. Come hear her personal testimony of life, healing and forgiveness. Also present will be Fred and Lisa Everett, co-Directors of the Diocese Office of Family Life and Pro-life.

Sally has shared her testimony in magazines, radio and television stations nationally and internationally including LeSea Broadcasting and TBN. She is a member of the National Black Pro-Life Coalition and serves on the Board of Directors for the Life Centers Pregnancy Care Centers in Indianapolis, IN.

Sally has a passion for music, youth and lost souls. Last December, she married for the first time at age 45 to an "awesome man of God." Sally currently serves as caregiver for her 81 year old mother who has dementia. She is also writing a book: "From the Womb to the Tomb," to be released soon.

The Lord has allowed Sally Thompson to know -- with the love of God and a clear understanding of her purpose in Christ -- that there are "no limits" to what God can and will do through us! Listen to her minister in word and song, and you will experience how the healing hand of God can be upon each of us in life; no matter our path or our past.

This event includes brunch and is open to all regardless of race, religion, etc.
