4 Unhealthy Beverages: Whether you are watching your weight or just want to eat healthier, taking a look at what you drink is key. Empty calories can lurk in all types of beverages- especially these: 1)Coffee drinks with extras such as sugar or flavored syrup. These deliver a concentrated dose of quick-digesting carbohydrates that can lead to weight gain. A better option is a plain coffee with a little half and half, or better yet, enjoy antioxidant-rich green tea instead of coffee. 2)Frothy summer cocktails. Whether it's a margarita or a pina-colada, sugary drinks pack a double dose of calories due to alcohol and sugar- some can top 800 calories in one drink! A better option is a glass of red wine or a light beer. 3) Non-juice "juice drinks" Before buying bottled juice, read the label and make sure it is 100% juice (not just "made with juice" and check for added sweeteners and calories. Many of these drinks are no better than drinking sugared water. 4)Soda. There just isn't anything nutritious about soda, whether it's diet or regular. If you're a soda addict, breaking the habit is among the best moves you can make for your weight and health. Consider switching to sparkling water with a slice of citrus.
