WORDS FROM OUR PASTOR / PALABRAS DE NUESTRO PASTOR

Loneliness is part of our human condition and experience. There seems to be an epidemic of loneliness and alienation. In our hectic lives we seem to lack the friendship, the usual warm family and spiritual ties, which would help eliminate much of what we experience. Loneliness is an emotion, a feeling and a fear of being alone. It is a five year old leaving home for the first time and not knowing anyone at school. It is growing up and no one seems to notice or even care. It is being chosen last because you are clumsy, awkward or different. Loneliness is lying in a hospital bed, looking at the ceiling and asking: "Why me?" It is the loss of a good friend or a loved one after many years of marriage. It is realizing that in some ways, "we can never go home again."

Jesus knew loneliness. He was human and it was also part of His life. He spent time in prayer knowing the Father's love for Him. He shared His life with some very close and intimate friends, Peter, James and John and with Mary, Martha and others. He told them: "As the Father loves me, so I also love you. Remain in my love." On the night before He died, He also said that there is no greater love than this, to lay down one's life for another. Then He said something very special: "I no longer call you slaves. I call you my friends." The way to deal with loneliness is friendship with our God, friendship with self and friendship with others.

First of all, Jesus is our friend. The promise He made to His friends in that Upper Room is the same promise He makes to you and me. "I call you friends since I have made known to you all that I have heard from My Father. It was not you who chose Me. No, it was I who chose you." As a friend, Jesus will be with us always no matter what. Even when we turn away from Him, His love for us will be there. That love is the same love the father has for his prodigal son waiting for his return. That is the sign of God's friendship with each one of us.

Secondly, friendship with self. Without being a friend to self, we cannot love others. We need to realize and appreciate that all of us are special, have dignity and are worthwhile in spite of all of our weaknesses, all of our foolishness and sin. We need to embrace the shadow in our lives, accept our humanness and strive again to become more patient, more gentle, more loving of self. We need to know that God loves us just as we are right now! He knew us from the very first moments in our mother's womb. The Hound of Heaven continues to pursue us down through the seasons and years of our lives until we meet Him face to face.

Finally, because love is of God, we are to be friends. Our love like God's love is to be all inclusive. God's love is an embrace of all that He has created. Strange as it seems, in our need to be loved, we live more of our false self pretending that we are better than others because of class, education, power and wealth. It is getting ahead no matter who or what stands in the way. Isn't that sad when people are so concerned about their own interests, taking care of their own selfish needs that they forget that we are all brothers and sisters in the Lord? To exclude others is to fail at friendship and loving.

We heard that God shows no partiality. Everyone is acceptable to Him. We are to extend our friendship and love to others by sharing our time, talent and treasure. What really becomes good for you and me becomes the good of our neighbor as well. The Lord has called us to be friends. Like those early believers, we might be surprised at what can happen when the Holy Spirit opens our minds and hearts in friendship with others.

La soledad es parte de nuestra condición y experiencia humanas. Parece que hay una epidemia de soledad y alienación. En nuestras vidas ajetreadas, parece que nos falta la amistad, los cálidos lazos afectivos familiares y espirituales, que ayudarían a eliminar gran parte de lo que experimentamos. La soledad es una emoción, un sentimiento y un miedo a estar solo. Es un niño de cinco años que se va de casa por primera vez y no conoce a nadie en la escuela. Está creciendo y nadie parece darse cuenta o incluso preocuparse. Se elige el último porque eres torpe, torpe o diferente. La soledad está en la cama de un hospital, mirando al techo y preguntando: "¿Por qué yo?" Es la pérdida de un buen amigo o un ser querido después de muchos años de matrimonio. La soledad se está dando cuenta de que, en cierto modo, "nunca más podremos volver a casa".

Jesús conocía la soledad. Él era humano y también era parte de su vida. Pasó tiempo en oración conociendo el amor del Padre por él. Él compartió su vida con algunos amigos muy cercanos e íntimos, Pedro, Santiago y Juan y con María, Marta y otros. Él les dijo: "Como el Padre me ama, así también yo los amo. Permanece en mi amor." En la noche antes de morir, también dijo que no hay mayor amor que este, dar la vida por otro. Luego dijo algo muy especial: "Ya no los llamo esclavos. Te llamo mis amigos." La forma de lidiar con la soledad es la amistad con nuestro Dios, la amistad consigo mismo y la amistad con los demás.

Primero, Jesús es nuestro amigo. La promesa que hizo a Sus amigos en ese Cenáculo es la misma promesa que hace a usted y a mí. "Los llamo amigos porque les he dado a conocer todo lo que he escuchado de Mi Padre. No fuiste tú quien me eligió. No, fui yo quien te eligió." Como amigo, Jesús siempre estará con nosotros sin importar nada. Incluso cuando nos alejamos de Él, su amor por nosotros estará allí. Ese amor es el mismo amor que el padre tiene por su hijo pródigo que espera su regreso. Ese es el signo de la amistad de Dios con cada uno de nosotros.

En segundo lugar, amistad con uno mismo. Sin ser un amigo para nosotros mismos, no podemos amar a los demás. Debemos darnos cuenta y apreciar que todos nosotros somos especiales, tenemos dignidad y valemos la pena a pesar de todas nuestras debilidades, todas nuestras tonterías y pecados. Necesitamos abrazar la sombra en nuestras vidas, aceptar nuestra humanidad y esforzarnos nuevamente para volvernos más pacientes, más amables, más amorosos. ¡Necesitamos saber que Dios nos ama tal como somos ahora! Él nos conoció desde los primeros momentos en el vientre de nuestra madre. El sabueso del cielo continúa persiguiéndonos a través de las estaciones y años de nuestras vidas hasta que lo encontramos cara a cara.

Finalmente, porque el amor es de Dios, debemos ser amigos. Nuestro amor como el amor de Dios es ser inclusivo. El amor de Dios es un abrazo de todo lo que Él ha creado. Por extraño que parezca en nuestra necesidad de ser amados, vivimos más de nuestro falso yo pretendiendo que somos mejores que otros por su clase, educación, poder y riqueza. Está avanzando sin importar quién o qué se interponga en el camino. ¿No es triste cuando la gente está tan preocupada por sus propios intereses, cuidando sus propias necesidades egoístas que se olvidan de que todos somos hermanos y hermanas en el Señor? Excluir a los demás es fracasar en la amistad y el amor.

Escuchamos que Dios no muestra parcialidad. Todos son aceptables para Él. Debemos extender nuestra amistad y amor a los demás compartiendo nuestro tiempo, talento y tesoro. Lo que realmente se vuelve bueno para ti y para mí se convierte en el bien de nuestro vecino también. El Señor nos ha llamado a ser amigos. Al igual que los primeros creyentes, podríamos sorprendernos de lo que puede suceder cuando el Espíritu Santo abre nuestras mentes y corazones en amistad con los demás.

Q & A WITH FR. JUSTIN

Email your questions to:
fatherjustin@strose.com

QUESTION: What does Jesus mean when he says, "No one comes to the Father except through me." (John 14:6)?

ANSWER: Jesus is often pointing to the unique role that he has with regards to human salvation, that is, with humanity's relationship to God. In the reference above he also says, "I am the way and the truth and the life." We often need to ask ourselves: What is fundamentally unique about Jesus? Another closely related question is: What is the relationship between the Christian and the Law given by God to Moses?

To understand the issue, it is worth turning to St. Paul, especially his letters to the Romans and the Galatians. Paul points out that the Mosaic Law does not have the power to save a person, rather, it serves an educational function. It points out to the adherent their sins. The problem confronted, however, is that no one relying solely on his or her own ability has the power to perfectly observe the law. Humanity knows that it is unhappy. The law shows us that it is our sins that make us unhappy, but we find that we are unable to stop sinning using our own strength. If that were the end of the story, then it would be a depressing story. This is precisely where Jesus comes into the picture.

It is through faith in Christ Jesus, Paul tells us, that we are to be freed from our sins. "For freedom, Christ set us free" (Gal 5:1). Jesus reveals the inner nature of the moral law – not negating it, but bringing it to a higher pitch of perfection. Moreover, Christ reveals that through him we will receive the Holy Spirit (which we receive in our baptism), who is to be a "paraclete" – or advocate.

What exactly is a "paraclete"? Well, you will need to wait for next week's question to find out the answer.
