The Pastor's Page

Dear Friends of Our Lady of the Chesapeake,

The theme of my homilies over the past couple of weeks has been to "go and make disciples." These are the words Jesus says to his disciples at the end of Matthew's Gospel prior to his ascension. This is the mission of the Church today as well, although at times, it seems like we have lost sight of this mission. OLC is focusing on how we can recover this sense of missionary zeal so that our parish will be at the forefront of work of missionary discipleship – from myself to the staff to you, our parishioners and friends. I pray all of us will be open to experiencing a new spiritual transformation, similar to what happened that first Pentecost.

I would like to thank Stacey Beres and her volunteers who make last week's Adventure Bible Camp (ABC) a success! Many hours of prep time went into transforming our facilities into an island oasis, where our kids learned about how Jesus rescues. I thank everyone who donated time, food, and financial support to make OLC's ABC a great success!

The Finance Committee and I are continuing to plan for a presentation to the parish concerning our financial situation. I am hoping it will take place sometime in August, after we have closed out our fiscal year (which ended June 30, 2018). In the meantime, there is a way you can donate directly to OLC that would keep your donations 100% here and that is the new Evangelization Support collection OLC will be taking up twice a month starting in August. All donations up the expense of Evangelization are tax exempt. Please consider transferring some of your Deferred Maintenance donations to Evangelization Support as well. It would go a long way to help OLC's budget needs.

I also continue to encourage you to sign up for GiveCentral. We currently have 60 donors enrolled with a projected income for the next twelve months of over $117,000! Everyone who enrolls and begins making their weekly contributions to OLC via GiveCentral will be entered into a drawing for a $1,500 cruise voucher on a Royal Caribbean Cruise (or a $1,500 vacation credit from Cruise & Travel Planner.) And great news!!!! The enrollment deadline for the vacation voucher has been extended to Sept. 15, 2018 so sign up today. Go to www.givecentral.org, click on "Start Giving" and search for OLC by name or zip code. If you would like help with enrolling, please stop by the parish office. We would be happy to assist you.

Thank you for your prayers and support for Our Lady of the Chesapeake.

God Bless!

A Spirituality of Non-Hurrying

“Nothing can be more useful to a man than a determination not to be hurried.” Thoreau wrote that and it's not meant as something trivial.

We hurry too much, pure and simple. As Henri Nouwen describes it: One of the most obvious characteristics of our daily lives is that we are busy. We experience our days as filled with things to do, people to meet, projects to finish, letters to write, calls to make, and appointments to keep. Our lives often seem like over-packed suitcases bursting at the seams. In fact, we are almost always aware of being behind schedule. There is a nagging sense that there are unfinished tasks, unfulfilled promises, unrealized proposals. There is always something else that we should have remembered, done, or said. There are always people we did not speak to, write to, or visit. Thus, although we are very busy, we also have a lingering feeling of never really fulfilling our obligation. (An Invitation to the Spiritual Life)

What's wrong with hurrying? Any doctor, police officer, spiritual director, or over-worked mother, can answer that: Hurrying causes tension, high blood-pressure, accidents, and robs us of the simple capacity to be in the moment.

But spiritual writers take this further. They see hurry as an obstacle to spiritual growth.

Donald Nicholl, for example, says “hurry is a form of violence exercised upon time” an attempt, as it were, to make God's time our own, our private property. What he and others suggest is that, in hurrying, we exercise a form of greed and gluttony?

The gospels tell us that even Jesus was so busy at times that he didn't have time to eat.

Too often we have a rather simplistic notion of greed and gluttony. We imagine greed, for example, as hoarding money and possessions, as being selfish, hard-hearted, like Scrooge in the Dickens' Christmas tale. Indeed, that kind of greed exists, though it's not the prerogative of many. For most of us, greed takes a different, more subtle form. More than money, we hoard experience. We constantly hurry what we're doing so as to be available to do something else. We try to juggle too many things at the same time precisely because we want too many things. The possessions we really want are experience, knowledge, sensation, achievement, status. We're greedy in a way Scrooge never was. It's this kind of hurry, subtly driven by greed and gluttony, that can be a form of violence exercised upon time and can constitute an obstacle to holiness.

But there are other kinds of hurry that come from simple circumstance and duty. Almost everyone of us, at least during our working years, have too many things to do: Daily, we struggle to juggle the demands of relationships, family, work, school, church, child-care, shopping, attention to health, concern for appearance, house-work, preparing meals, rent and mortgage payments, car payments, commuting to and from work, bus schedules, unwanted accidents, unforeseen interruptions, illnesses, and countless other things that eat up more time than is seemingly available.

The gospels tell us that even Jesus was so busy at times that he didn't have time to eat. That's not surprising. Robert Moore once said that the mark of a true adult is that “he or she does what it takes.” Sometimes that means being stretched to the limit, being over-extended, having to juggle too many things all at once, driving faster than we'd like, working to the point of exhaustion, even as there is still more that we should ideally be doing.

Still we have to be careful not to rationalize. God didn't make a mistake in creating time, God made enough of it, and when we can't find enough time and, as the Psalmist says, find ourselves getting up ever earlier and going to bed ever later because we have too much to do, we need to see this as a sign that sooner or later we had better make some changes. When we hurry too much and for too long we end up doing violence to time, to ourselves, and to our blood pressure.

Spiritual Direction

offers the value of sharing our lived experience of God with another.

There is a concrete aspects of a lived experience. How is God's specific presence felt? What are the interior reactions to God's presence - e.g., peace, joy, desire, love or restlessness, fear, anger? Spiritual Direction opens us to a fuller and deeper relationship with God. Anyone interested in Spiritual Direction contact Sister Sally: 410-255-3677 or srussell@olchesapeake.org.

Do you know how to make a sandwich?

Would you like to help those who need a hand up? Winter Relief is on break until next fall. However, during the spring and summer months, OLC volunteers make sandwiches for the homeless of the House of Hope. Many hands make light work, and it only takes an hour or two to put together a much appreciated meal for many. Contact Joyce Weisner at 410-255-4437 or 410-736-2683 if you would like more information or to help.
