pastor's Corner

Dear family,

There is a little game that some children will play with their parents or those who care for them where they try to measure their love for them. The way one might describe the size of a caught fish or the wingspan of a bird, they will extend their hands to show the size of their love for their parents. Sometimes children will contort themselves so dramatically to "show" their love to someone they care about. These children are struggling to express a spiritual reality by physical means, and though we know that no physical ability or dimension can even express the fullness of true love, they persist in trying. This is because we are human, as spiritual and physical beings, we only have our bodies to express the contents of our heart. Whether we, like children, contort our bodies, put beautiful words into writing or song, or sacrifice our time and energy, we show love the best we can by what we do. In today's Gospel we hear a familiar passage often used by those trying to evangelize and being a conversation about faith to others, even at sporting events: "For God so loved the world that He gave His only Son..."

It's such a beautiful reflection of a love that shows itself in action. I fear that some times we don't hear the beauty in such a love profession because we have heard it quotes so many times. Like a love song played on the radio with such frequency, it's words can be taken less seriously when it seems "overdone." But the action remains. He gave his only son and nothing less. Displayed for all to see and historically verifiable, God hung as a innocent man convicted and murdered on a tree.

Now more than halfway through Lent, God has asked us to purify our relationships. Last week we looked at Jesus' example of how we are to defend justice and protect the sanctuary of our hearts. Now we could inquire of our relationships' health by asking one question: what does "love" look like in my relationships? Do we see the sacrifice like that of Jesus, are there words expressing unconditional love like the words of consecration: "This is my body. This is my blood." Our do the words we exchange sounds differently. Do we perceive the love of God in our relationships as He once showed us on the cross when with His arms outstretched, he "said" "I love you this much."

In His joy,

Fr. Daniel
