pastor's Corner

Dear family,

We hear in today's Gospel the account of Jesus healing a man who is deaf and mute. Our Lord's life-giving touch restores the natural order and frees this man to live fully. The same God who creates out of nothing continues His creating act by touching our humanity. Interestingly enough, the words Our Lord used and His actions are the final part of the ritual of baptism. Before the final "line" inviting the people to celebrate this new spiritual life, the cleric makes the Sign of the Cross over the child's lips and ears saying, "The Lord Jesus made the deaf hear and the dumb speak, may He soon touch your ears to hear His word and your lips to proclaim His faith." In this beautiful act the Church calls attention to the fact that through God's direct involvement, He continues to recreate and restore His people. The language of being born again is not a symbol we Catholics use recklessly as we believe that God recreates His people and continues to touch us individually. And yet, sometimes I fear we fail to use his new life we have been given. If we have been empowered to see, hear and speak the Gospel, do our lives reflect this miracle. Imagine the man in today's Gospel hearing music for the first time in his life, he must have been taken back and moved so deeply. Imagine his joy and the joy of his family and friends who can for the first time converse with him freely: no more guessing and frustration, he can now fully express what's on his heart. We who have been given the ability to hear and speak the Gospel perhaps may not realize the gift contained therein. For if we knew the treasure we hold, we would hang on to each of God's words and never fail to zealously share what we have heard not out of mere obligation, but because we were inspired to do so. Are we listening? Because if we heard well the word being spoken to us at every liturgy and every time we broke open the Scriptures, I am convinced it would inspire us to speak up thus inspiring others.

In His joy,

Fr. Daniel
