Requirements for Adult Confirmation Preparation

Who may prepare? Baptized Catholic adults who have celebrated First Holy Communion but lack the Sacrament of Confirmation, and who do not have any other impediments to receiving the Sacraments.

Please note: Individuals must be in a proper state of grace before they can receive the sacrament of Confirmation, which means if married, must be in a marriage formally recognized by the Catholic Church.

For example: A Catholic married by a Justice of the Peace or other non-Catholic officiator without a formal dispensation from the Church is outside the state of grace, according to the Church's theology on the sacraments.

1. Divorced: Catholics who are divorced, but NOT remarried or engaged, may prepare for Confirmation provided they acknowledge if this status changes. If you decide while preparing, you MUST complete a petition for nullity on the prior marriage(s) BEFORE you marry in the Church. Failure to do so, places you outside the state of grace, and unable to receive the sacraments.

2. Re-married: Catholics who divorce and re-marry without obtaining a formal decree of nullity on the prior marriage(s) (either their own, or their spouses) may not receive any of the Church's sacraments unless they complete the required petition and the Church grants the annulment.

3. Married: Catholics seeking the sacrament of Confirmation must be married by the Church, either by a deacon or priest BEFORE receiving the sacrament of Confirmation (or Holy Communion, and Reconciliation). If a Catholic is currently married civilly, common-law, or by another Christian minister, they must marry in the Catholic Church prior to being confirmed.

If you have any questions, please contact the parish office and schedule an interview with Deacon Dolpher 713.554.1557 or email edolpher@stcyrilhouston.org. Not all annulments require the same process; we will help you determine what process is necessary and help you through it. The above information is to provide basic information on common scenarios/questions. The Church is here to help.

Requirements for RCIA Preparation

During your interview process, it will be necessary to discuss your marital status (former, current, and future). Complete honesty is absolutely integral to ensuring one's future or present sacramental life will begin on the right track, or will be redirected, if necessary.

1. Marital Status - For inquirers that are currently married, we will inquire as to the nature of your current marriage at the time the vows were made, as well as any prior marriages of either yourself or your spouse. This includes marriages that were witnessed by non-Catholic ministers, Justice of the Peace, common-law or other religious minister.

2. Divorce - Individuals or couples who have one or more prior unsuccessful marriages between them and are currently re-married will have any past/current marriages reviewed to determine if an annulment or validation is required. If any annulments or validations are required, these must begin immediately, and must be completed satisfactorily prior to the Rite of Election.

3. Engaged - An engaged person seeking to become Catholic or complete their initiation must have both theirs, and their future partner's complete marital history reviewed. If there are any prior marriages between the currently engaged couple, each prior marriage must be resolved through the annulment process prior to the inquirer advancing to the Rite of Election. This is done so that you can ensure that your life and that of your marriage is in communion with God and in accordance with a Catholic Faith life.

It is not the intention of the Church to place a burden on you, but to ensure the road to full initiation is clear of any impediments. If impediments are present, we are here to assist you as an individual or a couple and to pray with you through whatever process is required.

Note: If a formal petition is required, this process could take at least a year or more to complete. Other forms of annulment usually take less time, depending on individual circumstances, and the timeliness of submitting all documents.
