Dear Principals, Faculties, Students and Families,

In just a few days, we Catholics will join with all of our Christian sisters and brothers to rejoice in the moment that saved the world: the resurrection of Jesus Christ. I pray with all my colleagues in Catholic education in the Archdiocese of New York that the growth we have achieved through the sacrifice and contemplation of this solemn season of Lent stays with us always.

Being part of this Catholic institution of education with centuries of history in New York is, like this season, both humbling and a great source of pride and joy. Seeing the daily hard work and devotion of our principals, faculty and staff as they inspire our students to excellence is what this mission is all about. Seeing such dedication translate into the consistent academic successes of our students is exhilarating.

As we gather to celebrate God's greatest gift, let us honor the values we teach our students, which make our community welcoming, diverse and kind. It is with these principles that we prepare the children for adulthood, with hopes they contribute to the greater good of mankind, as Jesus taught us to do.

Thank you for your commitment to Catholic education in the Archdiocese of New York. I wish your family a peaceful and blessed Easter.

Sincerely,

Mr. Michael J. Deegan
Interim Superintendent of Schools
Archdiocese of New York
