Cast your net off
to the starboard side
and you will find
something,
said the LORD.

So they made a cast and took
so many fish
they could not
haul in the net
because of the number of fish
in it.

From Father Mike

One of the things to pay attention to in John's gospel is his references to day and night or to light and darkness. Today's gospel, recounting Jesus' third appearance to the disciples after his resurrection, is described as beginning at dawn, when he meets Peter and the others who have been fishing all night. Night for John is when bad things happen, or, at the very least, when nothing good occurs. Daytime, however, is when good things take place—it is symbolic of the spiritual daylight of having Jesus in our lives. Earlier in John's gospel, Jesus alerted the apostles at the Passover meal that without him they could do nothing. Now in light of his resurrection and at his direction, they catch an overabundance of fish, a foreshadowing of the effectiveness of their ministry to come. I wonder if we Catholics are not very good at evangelization because we are not sure what to say to people or even how to go about sharing the gospel with others. Or we may have lots of clever ideas and even ingenious ways to present Christ to others only to see it be relatively ineffective. This uncertainty or lack of success signals the lack of Jesus' presence, as if we are operating in the dark. With Christ, we live in the bright sunshine that calls us to shine his love on others and provides us the clarity of means by which to achieve it. This Easter, let us continue to remember that Jesus is the Light of the World, the Breaking Dawn, the Morning Star who never sets!

CHURCH IN THE HOLY LAND

Envelopes are available to support the church in the Holy Land, especially to help maintain the sites in Jerusalem, Bethlehem, Nazareth, and other holy places visited by thousands of pilgrims annually and to lend assistance to the shrinking number of Christians who live in and around these sacred places.
