This Weekend...we celebrate the Baptism of Jesus. Legend has it that with baptism, Jesus begins His Mission. Today we celebrate baptism, for the most part, with babies and then confirmation usually with junior high or high school students. When students are confirmed we say they take a more adult role in the Church. Within our culture it seems that after high school when our students head out to further their education, it is then that they go out on mission. It seems that it is then they make decisions about their spiritual lives as well. As parents this is our responsibility to prepare the students for this. Perhaps this is why we are given this celebration each year. We need to remind ourselves that there is more to sending our young people on mission than just picking out a college. Parents, are you preparing the young people for this? Students, are your spiritual lives part of your mission? Happy Ordinary Time!
