

Dear Second Grade,

You have worked hard this year and are now ready for the third grade. The third grade is going to be a challenge and part of our job is to help you become better readers and writers. Math is another important skill we work hard at. I encourage you to study your addition, subtraction, time, money, and multiplication facts. We will jump right into some of these subjects as soon as school begins in the fall.

You will notice that there are some fantastic choices on our summer reading list. I definitely encourage you to read as many as you can, however you are to pick only one of the books and complete one of the listed projects. I also encourage you to read at least 10 min a day. Reading can be shared by someone reading to you, reading independently, or listening to a book on tape.

Enjoy your summer and I look forward to seeing you in September!

Sincerely,

Mrs. Dobos
