SUNDAY 3 FEBRUARY 2019

Fourth Sunday of the Year - Year C

This is a continuation of last Sunday's reading. In the course of his sermon in the synagogue at Nazareth, Jesus had declared that Isaiah's messianic vision of pardon, healing and liberation (61:1-2) was being fulfilled among them. The people greeted the news with enthusiasm.

However, when he claimed a central role for himself in bringing this about, their enthusiasm turned into scepticism. They still saw him as just the son of Joseph, a local carpenter. How could one such as he fulfil the beautiful words of Isaiah? And yet they had heard that he had done great things in Capernaum.

But it was when he went on to say that the Gentiles would be included in the messianic blessings that the real trouble began. He gave two examples of Gentiles who had been helped by two of their greatest prophets, Elijah and Elisha. On hearing this everyone in the synagogue was enraged and rose up against him.

The Jews had forgotten that they were called to be a 'light to the nations.' It was this exclusivism that led to the trouble in the synagogue. Jesus challenged this. However, instead of looking at the reality, they turned on him and tried to kill him. But he escaped through their midst.

This incident illustrated the truth of the saying that no prophet is ever accepted in his own country. It also foreshadows the ultimate fate of Jesus.

Special Intention (God's Blessing)

Finally ... I got a summer holiday!

Some time ago I was invited to celebrate the 'convalidation' of a marriage by a couple I knew from a previous parish. "But we'd like to do this in the Philippines ... and here's your ticket!" Hard to say no to that one! So, on 10th January I set off on the long flights. I arrived at Sibulan Airport, Negros Oriental on the following Saturday evening – to 28 degrees of heat (and 8 hours ahead of time here). Throughout two weeks I experienced nothing but welcome, generous hospitality, kindness, warmth, friendliness, smiling faces, respect and helpfulness. One evening and out for a walk in the city where the wedding was due to take place I got completely lost, wandering around for an hour. Eventually I asked for directions from someone who replied, "my husband and I will take you back to your hotel – jump in!"

The Philippines is predominantly a 'Catholic country' and priests are held in high respect. Not that you would ever recognise one walking around as they dress like everyone else – light clothing in the incredible year-round hot climate. I wore vestments for the church celebration and thought I was going to pass out in the heat! Faith imbues all of life and culture in the Philippines. Large church buildings are packed for an average Sunday Mass and with a large crowd outside too. At the end of Mass last Sunday, where I was, the priest announced that the Bishop would be visiting the parish for confirmations ... 500 of them ... 'first come, first served', he announced!

Each month is fiesta time! The last Sunday I was there was their final day of Christmas with their own national celebration of the 'Holy Child'. Images similar to (and based on) the Infant of Prague adorn churches, homes, shops and even garage forecourts. At Mass the images are held high and blessed and then families gather for food and company and celebration. Christmas 'trees' which are conical tree-like structures made from anything people can lay their hands on ... coconut shells, pieces of coloured plastic and adorned with lights ... are taken down this day. Families in the Philippines are traditionally still very large – 10 or 12 children is not uncommon. And so, in later life the 'elders' have a raft of family support.

In the Philippines and particularly in fiesta time everyone is welcomed into homes and families – even the stranger knows he/she can call by a house and be given food and a place at table. I tasted sea urchin, various kinds of fish we can't get here (including dried fish SO dry it was like munching fish crisps!), jack fruit, coconut (such as it never tastes here), and mango (such as it never tastes here!) I even developed a liking for rice which is the staple carb. The countryside is dominated by huge plantations of sugar cane, rice fields, coconut and mango trees. But my main memory is of a people who very quickly take one into their hearts and homes and share all they have freely and generously. I've started saving up already for a second visit!

WIADOMOŚCI POLSKIEJ WSPÓLNOTY W LIVINSTON

Drodzy, Jeremiasz mówi nam, że Pan skierował do niego, ale także do Ciebie i mnie następujące słowa: "Zanim ukształtowałem cię w łonie matki, znałem cię, nim przyszedłeś na świat, poświęciłem cię (...) Ja jestem z tobą – mówi Pan – by cię ochraniać". Każdy z nas jest wyjątkowym i znanym po imieniu Bożym synem i córką - dlatego z wiarą powtarzamy za psalmistą tę modlitwę dziękczynną: Będę wystawiał pomoc Twoją, Panie. święty Paweł podnosi poprzeczkę, gdy mówi: Starajcie się o większe dary, a ja wam wskażę drogę jeszcze doskonalszą. Piękny Hymn o miłości kończą słowa: Tak więc trwają wiara, nadzieja, miłość – te trzy: największa z nich jednak jest miłość.

Jak realizować tę miłość? Z pewnością niosąc dobrą nowinę ubogim i wolność uwięzionym czy zniewolonym w jakikolwiek sposób. Tylko jak to zrobić w świecie, który nie chce słuchać i bywa przekonany o tym, że wie wszystko? Odpowiedzią są słowa Jezusa w jego rodzinnych stronach: *Żaden prorok nie jest mile widziany w swojej ojczyźnie. Usłyszeliśmy jak na odważne słowa Jezusa wszyscy w synagodze unieśli się gniewem. Niech każde niedzielne spotkanie z Chrystusem w naszej wspólnotcie wiary, w Słowie Bożym i w Eucharystii uwalnia nas od lęku przed przyznawaniem się do Niego, zwłaszcza wobec przeciwności, które przynosi życie. Pamiętajmy - Bóg jest Miłością! Ks. Piotr*
