PASTOR'S MESSAGE

Welcome to our New Web site...

We would like to use social media not to impress people but to impact people. In this post modern era we are posed with challenges in carrying the Gospel message more effectively. In no way we are less commissioned rather to continue to pass on the baton in making Disciples and Witness to Jesus through empowering, informing and inspiring.

Jesus who went around doing good and preached the good news, spoke poetically, used catchy sayings and play on words, raising questions etc to make it easy for his listeners who were simple people. His intention was to pull spiritual truth from everyday life, in his ministry he used all tools that was available in his times.

He preached and narrated stories, parables, with things that were around him. He used visual illustrations to explain himself better; for example, washing of the feet, having the little children and explaining about the kingdom and the innocence. He knew very well that visual communication is the power tool rather than verbal, so why he spoke so much about the nature around; sower and the seed, talents, fishing net, floor and the yeast, coin, temple collection box, scripture scrolls and many more. I am of a personal opinion that Jesus would have used all modern gadgets that would help him in promoting the Reign of God. Our Parish web page is making a similar attempt to accomplish the same gospel message that Jesus preached and proclaimed.

Our web site name will be stanneskitchener.ca it comes to us with a new look and with a professional touch. Thanks to David Dunbar who helped us in the past. Now we have an all new site built by Sebastian Mohan who has volunteered and begun this good work in building and developing and maintaining our web site. Along with him is Kevin Grossi our parish photographer and Mary Forcier our youth minister who will see to it that all current information are posted in timely fashion. As we embark on our Jubilee Year, this is a great gift to our young generation that we can talk to them and present ourselves in a more appealing way.
