CHANGES OR ADDITIONS

Living as Intentional Disciples of Jesus

We can easily be tempted to compartmentalize our life. We won't grow in holiness if Sunday Mass is it and is separated from the realities of our daily life. We shouldn't compartmentalize our play and recreation from our life of discipleship, any more than we should compartmentalize our family or work life from our prayer life.

To be an authentic Catholic, an intentional disciple, in our culture today can be particularly challenging. I often tell our young people that it takes courage to be Catholic today. The vocation of the Catholic laity is to bring the truth of the Gospel into the world. Remember the question Jesus once posed to the disciples, "when the Son of Man comes, will He find faith on earth?" (Luke 18:8). We should ponder this question and ask if we are doing our part.
