Twenty-Ninth Sunday in Ordinary Time

Growing as Disciples of Jesus, Making Disciples For Jesus

FORMED.ORG

Interested in seeing some of the best speakers in the country talk on some of the most relevant topics in your life?

Formed.org is the place to go. The parish has a subscription to this service, and I hope many people take advantage of it. The high school program, YDisciple, will be the backbone of what our youth learn from;
parents, I strongly encourage you to also watch the videos so you can have discussions on the important and hot topics they are learning about.

Formed.org also has videos on praying with
Scripture, MARRIAGE, Baptism, walking with God, and many others.
The parish website has more details.

FOR PARENTS:

First, thank you for raising your children Catholic.

Second, to aid you in this endeavor: we will have a meeting the Wednesday after Confirmation, the 28th, in the Cigna Center at 7p. This meeting is for all small group leaders and parents to get oriented on the new program.

The high school program, YDisciple, is designed for parents to take the lead, to be the first and best teachers of their children in the ways of faith. They made a special video for parents to watch and be a guide to help you raise your children Catholic.

To get signed up, go to formed.org, scroll down and enter the parish code

X82TT6 (case sensitive) in the 'For Individuals' box, click 'Submit code,' fill out the basic info for a profile, and your in! After this first time sign-up, you simply need to click the big LOG-IN button, and enter your email and password.

Not sure how to have conversations with your kids? Each of the programs on formed.org comes with study questions that can be the basis for you. When the teens meet in small groups, these questions will be the basis of their discussion, so if you have the discussion first, they will come well prepared to help other students in their faith as well. I pray this is an engaging, formative experience for you and your family.

Yours in Christ through Mary, Fr. Schmitz

Questions from the Gospel/Homily

1. What topic of faith would be good to learn more about? Does formed.org offer a video on that? (Feel free to tell me so I could work it into the homily also!)
2. Could the family watch a few videos on formed.org and then talk about the questions on the study guide?
3. Who is one person you could show the power of God to through serving?

Reflecting On Sunday's Readings

The humanness of the disciples should bring us great consolation, while the magnanimity of Jesus should bring us great hope. The disciples were so human like us, yet ended up so godly due to Christ's grace. In this week's Gospel reading we are reminded that the path of discipleship is a process of growth, and not a plateau of godliness that is once and for all achieved. Rather than getting discouraged when our sinful humanity is revealed we must remind ourselves that we are a work in progress, and that as we are brought closer to the Light, defects are more easily seen. So often, consciousness of our sin is an indication that we are drawing closer to Christ. The disciples had been with Jesus for some time, in the very presence of the Son of God, yet James and John's, selfish desire for grandeur and position had not been eliminated from their lives. Nor were the sinful response of pride and resentment by the other ten disciples. They too were in the process of growth and hadn't "arrived," even though they were Jesus' twelve handpicked disciples. Jesus' question to James and John shows his magnanimity as did his example of servanthood. "Can you drink this cup," Jesus asked. In their ignorance and perhaps arrogance they replied, "We are able." Rather than resent their ignorance and arrogance Jesus informs them that they would be included in his salvific process. Replying Jesus says, so to speak, when I am hanging there drinking the dregs of humanity's sins and redeeming all people with the fiery baptism of the cross, you will be there, represented by me. Jesus' great generosity and nobleness of spirit overlooked their foolishness and sin to include these still flawed disciples in his work of salvation. For followers of Christ who also remain so flawed and foolish, Jesus gives hope in this account of his dealings with James and John. For his grace is not extended only to the non-existent deserving and perfect of this world, but to all who are flawed and foolish who choose to believe and trust in the cup of salvation that he consumed on our behalf. "Stumbling our way toward home, we worry to ourselves about the unworthiness of our love, only to discover that it has already been attended to. It was taken care of in that representative moment, that vicarious moment, in which he cried out, 'Father into your hands I commend my spirit,' and so saying he handed over to the Father all that he had assumed in the womb of Mary. "...To fret about the quality of our love is to miss the point. Yes, we examine ourselves, confess our failing and pray for grace to offer the best. But it will never be good enough, unless with all its flaws it is handed over and taken up into his love for the Father."* This is the hope of salvation; that we who are so human can be received and accepted by God. Isaiah prophesied of this amazing love and this saving transaction where, in exchange for the suffering of Jesus we would be made righteous. What hope is present in this prophesy; "he shall see the fruit of the travail of his soul and be satisfied." Jesus satisfies God's demand of justice for us. "The righteous one, my servant, [shall] make many to be accounted righteous—and he shall bear their iniquities." What a glorious exchange. This is the hope of salvation upon which we must fasten our eyes, and anchor our thoughts. For as we come to approach and love Jesus, the glorious Light of the World, our sins and flaws will become even more apparent in his light. If we look inward for some reassuring hint of self-righteousness we will shrink back in fear. But if we focus on Jesus our high priest and the glorious exchange he procured for us we will then be able to draw near to Christ's throne "with confidence."
