Faith in the Family

The holidays are filled with time together as family. This holiday season I am going to challenge you to have a conversation with your family about faith. Has the Catholic faith been passed down through the generations or is it new in your family? Ask different family members why they are Catholic. What other faiths are represented in your family? Ask them what they love about their own faith traditions. Share stories about times the family celebrated the Sacraments together or had a unique faith experience. Our Church is a family of families, so take some time to talk about your own faith journey and journal about these conversations here:
