

Mrs. Kwiatkowski by Jaycee Schulte Published on December 17, 2018

Do you notice something different about E.L.A class in the fifth and sixth grade? I think most of us do! Mrs. K. does not seem to be in her normal homeroom, but rather in her office by the gym, or her health room. Our “new” P.E. and health teacher, Mrs. K., used to be a fifth and sixth grade E.L.A teacher. This past summer and start of the new school year, she took on a new position as our school’s health and P.E. teacher. The reason she did this was because the new opportunity was offered to her and she was very excited and wanted to change things up. Her favorite thing about teaching these two subjects are that she enjoys how her day is always changing and how she is not constantly in the same place. Mrs. K. only taught the fifth and sixth graders, but this year she teachers all grades. She loves the fact that she can teach the younger kids and spend time with them. “They are fun and make me laugh,” she says.

Her favorite things about teaching at Saint Charles Borromeo are being able to pray at any point throughout the day and being with her kids. She also loves how we are grounded in our faith and focus a lot on our faith. Anyone who has ever had her as a teacher should know that one thing that made Mrs. K. happy was when her students were reading. She always pushed her students to read their books every night and reach a certain goal every quarter throughout the school year. Knowing that, I bet you are wondering what book she is reading right now! Mrs. K. is currently reading a book about the life of Saint John Paul. The book is called Saint John Paul the Great: His Five Loves and is written by Jason Evert.

Lastly, one piece of advice Mrs. K. would like to give to all Saint Charles students is to always be kind to everyone, even if they are different than you, and to make sure you have fun while working hard. Thank you Mrs. K. and congratulations on your new job!
