May 22 "We are told that we should not tell a woman when to have a child. Abortion is not about children who might come into the world, but it is about children who are already in the world, living and growing~ in the mother's womb. Sunday's Reflections
Romans 5:1-5

CAN DO

A lot of us try to hide our afflictions. If we hurt, we don't want people to know. If we're sick, we don't want word to get out. We don't want to attract attention. We prefer to keep the illusion that we are well, and others need not be concerned.

How strange it is then to hear Paul say of Christians, "We even boast of our afflictions." To Paul, his afflictions merely went to show how strong the power of God was. God could work through human afflictions in the miraculous way that someone in a wheelchair can still win a race, one who cannot see can still cook dinner, someone with hearing loss can still write music, and someone terminally ill can still teach and inspire. Sometimes the affliction itself becomes a means of showing how mighty one's inner strength really is.

In Paul's case, the afflictions were obstacles placed in the way of his preaching the gospel. The word of God was still able to spread in spite of these setbacks. Consequently, Paul says, "affliction produces endurance, and endurance, proven character, and proven character, hope, and hope does not disappoint."

Paul is never disappointed because the Holy Trinity takes care of him. He has peace with God through Jesus Christ, and the love of God has been poured out into him through the Holy Spirit. No wonder he could boast of afflictions.
