The Gospel of the Family: Joy
for the World

“Clothe yourselves with compassion, kindness, humility, meekness and patience ...above all, clothe yourselves with love!”
(Colossians 3.12, 14)

10th Sunday of Ordinary Time

Fr. Gerard Monaghan

Looking Beyond : Jesus exceeded social expectations. And that was the problem. No longer a mere carpenter, he dared to stand out as the traveling teacher and healer. His critics could not explain his power so they charged him with sorcery. But did that make any sense? Why would evil allow good to result? And because of his popularity, he was an embarrassment to his family. However, who was his family? Jesus scandalized people through his charismatic personality, his popularity and his power. He rose above the expectations of other, even his own family. Could this be God at work?
GOSPEL In Mark 3, Jesus faced his critics with a set of rhetorical questions and his family with the challenge of discipleship.
