Our readings today are wonderfully consoling and wildly challenging. If we take them to heart, they just might change our lives. For they should call us to profound gratitude for all that God has done for us and inspire us to live lives of thanksgiving and obedience to Him in response to His overwhelming love and mercy.

In the Gospel Reading, from Mark, Jesus tells us in His own words how we can thank Him and how our lives can reflect greatness in His eyes — we can imitate Him. He tells us, "Whoever wishes to be great among you will be your servant; whoever wishes to be first among you will be the slave of all. For the Son of Man did not come to be served but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many."

Our God has ransomed our lives. In truth, this "ransom" means our lives are not our own but belong to God. We must do what He asks us to do with them. And He has told us clearly what to do — serve others in love as we have been served in love by Him.

This is why service for the Christian Steward is not an add-on to our already busy lives. It is our life. Over the course of the next week, take these readings to heart. Reflect on the remarkable love God has shown for you. Then look carefully at your daily life. Is it an imitation of the servant-love of your Brother and Savior? What changes do you need to make, perhaps just in attitude, or perhaps to the trajectory of your life as a whole, to live in grateful service to the One who loves you so?

Contemplating Jesus

This work is totally Christ-centered, as is our Scripture passage. He is the dominant subject placed dramatically in the center of Correggio's composition, seated on a throne of clouds. His kingdom is not of the world, and neither are his priorities. "Whoever wishes to be first among you will be the slave of all" (Mark 10:44).

Jesus is strongly self-confident in his pose, yet sweet and inviting in his facial features. He is a king and a friend. His upper body is set, but his lower body is actively moving forward with his leg stepping toward us. He sits to receive and rule but is willing to step down and wash the soiled feet of his disciples.

It's good to pause and reflect on this Jesus who calls us to follow him. As a man, he preached like no one before or since. Two millennia later we are still talking about him. He possessed such power and dignity that soldiers sent to arrest him wouldn't dare lay hands on him. Kings (Herod), politicians (Pilate), churchmen (Pharisees), lawyers (scribes), civil servants (tax collectors), simple laborers (apostles), soldiers (at the cross), hardened sinners (prostitutes), and the poor were overcome by his compassion, authority, and character. Religious and pagans, men and women, children and the elderly—all were enraptured by his purpose and passion.

This amazing figure is the one who calls you and loves you! Spend time contemplating the beauty and moral integrity of this Jesus and give thanks that he has set his eyes and heart on you.

For Reflection

What aspect of the person of Jesus Christ most attracts you?

What is it about you that attracts Jesus? Ask him.

[Jesus said,] "For the Son of Man did not come to be served but to serve and to give his life as a ransom for many."

Dear Padre,

When I look at the crucifix or think about Jesus, I often get impure thoughts about Christ. These thoughts come at the most unlikely times, and I don't want them. Is this a serious sin?

You're not the only one with these obsessive thoughts. It's a rather common malady. There seems to be a certain perversity in the imagination of some people that makes their thoughts return repeatedly to what they fear and dread. Impure thoughts about Jesus, saints, priests, religious, statues, or the crucifix—God knows about these. God sees what's happening and how this troubles you. This doesn't shock or offend God.

In addition to mentioning this during the sacrament of reconciliation, one approach is to talk about these thoughts to God in your own words. For instance, "Dear Lord, you see into my heart, my mind, and my imagination. You know how obsessed I get with these terrible thoughts, how they keep returning, and how guilty they make me feel. But I don't know how to make them stay away. I have a crazy, mixed-up imagination."

Or maybe in your prayers, a bit of humor will help. "Lord, here is your weirdo child again. Those screwed-up thoughts are plaguing me once more. You know I don't want to consent to anything sinful, so I put my weirdo self into your hands."

If you deal with these thoughts as if they're too terrible to discuss with God, they'll plague you indefinitely. But if you can learn to pray and talk honestly about them to God, you'll learn to see them in perspective. They're not horrendous, and you'll see these mountains as the molehills they really are.

A Word From Pope Francis

We are not called to serve merely in order to receive a reward, but rather to imitate God, who made himself a servant for our love. Nor are we called to serve only now and again, but to live in serving. Service is thus a way of life; indeed it recapitulates the entire Christian way of life.

Crime and violence that threaten the lives and dignity of Floridians cannot be tolerated; yet society may not give up on those who have lost their way. The Criminal Justice system holds offenders accountable for their actions; however, punishment must include a constructive and redemptive purpose. As nearly all inmates will return to society, their reintegration must be encouraged. Restoring their right to vote is a meaningful step to engage their full participation in their communities.

While amending the Florida Constitution to ensure the restoration of voting rights is not ideal, it seems to be the only practical way to achieve this policy goal outside of pursuing an uncertain path in the courts. The FCCB supports Amendment 4.

Amendment 6: Rights of Crime Victims; Judges OPPOSE

Amendment 6 purports to create rights for victims of crime. The Church stands with victims of crime and their families, but most of these rights already exist in statutory law and it is unclear how incorporating these in the Florida Constitution would meaningfully benefit victims of crime. The duplication of these rights was noted as the proposal was debated by the Constitutional Revision Commission.

The proposal also establishes deadlines of five years for capital cases and two years for non-capital cases within which appeals should be completed. Significant numbers of those who have been released from Florida's death row were exonerated after five years. Such a weighty matter should not have an artificially-imposed period; to add one to the Constitution is improper.

While the amendment includes a common sense proposal to increase the retirement age for judges in Florida, its problematic provisions prompt FCCB to oppose Amendment 6.

The bishops urge voters to consider Catholic Social Teaching and consult the document, Considerations Before Voting on Constitutional Amendments (found on the FCCB website at: <https://www.flaccb.org/documents/2018/10/ConsideringAmendments.pdf>) as they discern their vote on the remaining nine amendments on the ballot.

FLORIDA CONFERENCE OF CATHOLIC BISHOPS
 The nonpartisan public policy voice of the Catholic Church in Florida

201 West Park Avenue, Tallahassee, Florida 32301-7715 * (850) 222-3803 * www.flaccb.org

The Florida Conference of Catholic Bishops (FCCB) has taken a formal position on three of the twelve amendments on the November 6, 2018, ballot. In order for an amendment to the Florida Constitution to pass, 60% of the electorate must vote in support.

Amendment 3: Voter Control of Gambling in Florida
SUPPORT

Amendment 3 ensures that Florida voters shall have the exclusive right to decide whether to authorize casino gambling. While people of goodwill may differ as to whether decisions to expand gambling should be in the hands of elected officials or directly with voters, as well as whether such a policy direction should reside in the Florida Constitution, the FCCB supports Amendment 3.

At various points since 1978, and most recently in 2011, the bishops have weighed in on concerns about casino gambling. There is historical and anecdotal evidence that casino gambling is accompanied by vice and social evils. The impact of casino gambling on low and moderate income families and individuals, especially those for whom gambling becomes a compulsive behavior is not positive. Needy individuals are particularly vulnerable to the lure of the casino and the promise of great fortune. For those struggling to make ends meet, casino gambling can provide an attractive means to relieve financial burdens, which ultimately only leads to crushing debt and personal crisis.

While many churches, schools, and other non-profit organizations rely upon games of chance for relatively small amounts revenue, most people recognize the difference between local fundraisers managed by volunteers and a multi-billion-dollar industry that exploits vulnerable members of the community for financial gain.

Amendment 4: Voting Restoration Amendment
SUPPORT

Amendment 4 allows for the automatic restoration of a felons' voting rights (with exceptions for those convicted of murder or felony sexual offenses) after completing all sentencing terms, including restitution, parole, or probation.

Florida is one of only four states in the country that does not allow automatic restoration of a felon's rights after completing a sentence. Currently, our state only restores their rights after approval by the governor and cabinet, acting as the clemency board. On February 1, 2018, a U.S. district court ruled Florida's current process for the restoration of voting right unconstitutional. That ruling is under appeal.
