Christ Our Passover

In the order of Mass celebrated according to the Ordinariate usage of the Roman Rite, just after the Pater noster and the Pax, right before the Agnus Dei, the priest breaks the consecrated Host, drops a Particle in the Chalice, and completes the Holy Sacrifice with the words of I Corinthians 5:7-8:

Alleluia. Christ our Passover is sacrificed for us.

Therefore let us keep the feast. Alleluia.

Like the Collect for Purity and the Prayer of Humble Access, this “fraction anthem” is a distinctively Anglican feature of our Liturgy and one that has no exact counterpart in the common Roman Rite. Yet for all that, this unique use of the Pascha nostrum at the Fraction of the Host aptly testifies to the survival and revival of Catholic Eucharistic doctrine in that part of the Anglican tradition now restored to the full communion of the Holy Roman Church.

As an acclamation sung at the Fraction, the Pascha nostrum originally appeared in the first Book of Common Prayer in 1549 where it provoked immediate controversy. In the eyes of many, including Stephen Gardiner, the conservative Anglican Bishop of Winchester, to invoke thus Christ our Paschal Lamb at the breaking of the Host was a biblical expression of the traditional Catholic doctrine of the Sacrifice of the Mass. It was this dogma that Protestants at the time firmly rejected. Significantly, the anthem disappeared from the second Prayer Book of 1552 and every subsequent edition until it was restored as an option in the 1979 American Book of Common Prayer. Among the few salutary revisions in the 1979 Prayer Book, this acclamation thus made its way into the Ordinariate’s Missal by way of the 1987 Book of Divine Worship approved for those formerly Anglican communities that came into the Catholic Church through Pope St. John Paul II’s Pastoral Provision.

Having reclaimed an authentically Catholic element that emerged in the Anglican heritage, we rejoice in the immolation of Christ on the Altar and we adore Him as “the immaculate Victim, the Holy Bread of eternal Life.” He is verily our Paschal Lamb, and with St. Thomas Aquinas and the blessed Apostle Paul we affirm that the Jewish Passover provides the superlative prefiguration of the Sacrament of our Redemption: Therefore let us keep the feast. Alleluia.
