Danville Area Senior Citizens to meet Thursday, August 20, 2015: The afternoon will begin with a delicious Steak Dinner prepared by ladies from Danville and Millwood Churches of Christ, North Bend Brethren & Mohican Door of Hope at St Luke Community Center at 12 noon.

The menu will include baked steak, seasoned red potatoes, California blend vegetables, lettuce salad, rolls, dessert & beverage. Suggested donation is $6 for lunch; reservations are due by Monday, August 17. Please contact Barb Mickley (740-599-7102 or 740-599-7224) or Marty Neighbarger at (740-599-2930). If you reach the answering machines, please leave your name and number attending.

Ohio Eastern Star will be present to offer free blood pressure checks beginning at 11:15am.

Following lunch, Beth Short, director of outreach for the Ohio Attorney General's Charitable Law Section, will discuss wise giving tips and clues for identifying whether fraudulent solicitations may be involved that take money from important causes. The programs and services of charities make a significant difference in the quality of life that we all enjoy. But how can you make sure that when you are making a donation that you are supporting a quality organization that will truly use your money in an appropriate way? This is information helpful to all of us.

Danville Area Senior Citizens is open to all former and current residents in Eastern Knox County (East Knox and Danville school districts including Apple Valley) and your friends and neighbors.

Another Form of Progress and Development

By Mary Ann Otto, Stewardship Director, Diocese of Green Bay, WI

It is not unusual that I have an immediate emotional or spiritual response to something I read. Recently, I had one such reaction when Pope Francis tweeted in June: "A decrease in the pace of production and consumption can at times give rise to another form of progress and development." Upon reading those words, my body relaxed and I felt at peace.

Though Pope Francis' comment was an insight directed at environmental and human ecology, the potential outcome of such a decrease overwhelmed me. The thought of living in a world that was not production or consumption driven immediately created an image in my mind of what taking a step closer to the Kingdom might look like and it made me happy.

I imagined what we consistently talk about in stewardship becoming more of a reality. It was about taking time to receive God's gifts gratefully, nurture them responsibly, share them generously and return them to God in abundance. It was about assessing our lives as followers of Jesus and as members of humankind. The statement was a call to set priorities that reflect a God centered way of life and a change in understanding the definition of power and success.

As a baby boomer, I remember Sundays when the stores were closed and my family would take turns entertaining or visiting our cousins. On beautiful summer days we might spontaneously gather with our backyard neighbors (many of them widowed or retired) for a picnic. We scavenged our kitchens for ingredients to make a dish to pass around, put our lawn chairs in a circle and spent the day together. It was simple, but yet some of the most wonderful memories of my childhood.

When I look at my children and grandchildren I would like for progress and development to reflect a faithful simplicity and generosity. It would be a way of life that honors the earth and humankind. We would be able to redistribute the world's resources so no one would go without. In the end, I want my children and grandchildren not to experience instant gratification and great wealth, but to experience lifelong joy. That would be progress!

Twentieth Sunday in Ordinary Time, Weekend of August 15-16, 2015 – Jesus announces that he is the “living bread.” And we understand that the Eucharist is the center of our life in faith: in our families, parish, local church and throughout the world. We are the stewards of Christ’s life in the Eucharist. We are called to put the Eucharist into action. How do we do that? St. Paul enjoins us to be always grateful, to worship, to try to understand the will of the Lord and to watch carefully how we live. What are some of the ways we can put the Eucharist into action this week?

That Man is You! (TMIY) – Becoming a Man After God’s Own Heart: That Man is You! is an interactive men’s program combing the best research from science with the teachings of the Catholic faith and the wisdom of the saints to develop the vision of a man fully alive. By honestly addressing the pressures and temptations that men face in our modern culture, That Man is You! seeks to form men who will be capable of transforming homes and society. More information is available at www.thatmanisyou.org.
