La Historia y Usted: Tercer domingo de Pascua

Si te gusta la escritura, es probable que, en los caminos misteriosos en los que el Espíritu trabaja, Sr. Macrina Scott, OSF plantado las semillas que encontraron un hogar agradable en tu corazón.

Ella entró en la vida religiosa como enclaustrado benedictino, donde estudió las obras de los grandes eruditos que escriben en el momento del Consejo. Ella fue a Dios el Jueves Santo un franciscano activo, que tomó en serio el llamamiento del Consejo para que la Palabra de Dios viva y activa en los corazones de los laicos católicos.

No importa donde usted vive. Su modelo brillante, la Escuela Bíblica Católica Denver, fue adaptado y re-trabajó para adaptarse a las necesidades de los católicos de todo el mundo. Revistas que reflexionan sobre las escrituras diarias comenzaron a prosperar y florecer hoy con un gran número de abonados, en parte debido a los laicos católicos educados que ella ayudó a crear.

Desde el principio, los editores de todo el país comenzaron rogándole por más. Yo habría dicho: "Yo no tengo tiempo." Ella dijo: "Voy a escribir un libro."

Escribió tres. Sus hermosos tratamientos, divertido, interesantes del Antiguo Testamento, y el Evangelio de Lucas / Hechos de los Apóstoles, siguen siendo el estándar de oro para los grupos de estudio bíblico. Usted puede encontrarlos en Tau Publishing.

Ella llegó a crear un brillante centro-que programa la Sabiduría animó a los de la segunda mitad de la vida de prestar atención a las aventuras espirituales del envejecimiento.

Cuando ella volvió a casa a aquel a quien su corazón amaba, la noticia se difundió las antiguas comunidades manera a través de moda de las personas que alguna vez fueron los extraños, pero, como esos discípulos a quienes Jesús apareció en la noche de Pascua, se unieron para siempre juntos, porque, al igual que Jesús, abrió sus inteligencias para que comprendieran las Escrituras.

The Story and You: Third Sunday in Easter

If you love scripture, chances are, in the mysterious ways in which the Spirit works, Sr. Macrina Scott, O.S.F. planted the seeds that found a welcome home in your heart.

She entered Religious Life as cloistered Benedictine, where she studied the works of the great scholars writing at the time of the Council. She went to God on Holy Thursday an active Franciscan, who took to heart the Council's call to make the Word of God alive and active in the hearts of the Catholic laity.

It doesn't matter where you live. Her brilliant model, the Denver Catholic Biblical School, was adapted and re-worked to fit the needs of Catholics around the world. Magazines reflecting on the daily scriptures began to thrive, and flourish today with large subscriber numbers, in part because of the educated Catholic laity which she helped create.

From the start, publishers from around the country began begging her for more. I would have said, "I don't have time." She said, "I'll write a book."

She wrote three. Her beautiful, funny, insightful treatments of the Old Testament, and the Gospel of Luke/Acts of the Apostles, remain the gold standard for bible study groups. You can find them at Tau Publishing.

She went on to create a brilliant program—the Wisdom Center—that encouraged those in the second half of life to pay attention to the spiritual adventures of aging.

When she flew home to him whom her heart loved, the news spread the old fashioned way—through communities of people who were once strangers but, like those disciples to whom Jesus appeared on Easter night, were forever bonded together because, like Jesus, she opened their minds to understand the scriptures.
