Celebrating Consecrated Life in Hallettsville
Mark your calendar for Sunday, November 8!
Come and celebrate the Year of Consecrated Life at Sacred Heart Parish in Hallettsville

Over 135 consecrated women, Sisters of the Incarnate Word and Blessed Sacrament, have ministered at Sacred Heart Catholic School in the past 133 years. Some of them will share reflections during the 10:30 a.m. Mass and then you are invited to gather in the school. On your way, check out the monument with the history, and the names of all the Sisters who have ministered at SHCS as well as the 33 young women from the parish who answered their call to become a Sister. Come and See and Celebrate. Finger foods will be available as you visit and browse among the displays, watch videos sharing the various ministries the Sisters are involved in today.

On Wednesday, September 23, Pope Francis gave a talk to the Bishops of the United States. Before Pope Francis arrived, we had about an hour of private time for prayer in the Cathedral of Washington, D.C. During that time much of my reflection went to you, the people of the Diocese of Victoria. I feel very blessed to have been in the presence of the Holy Father and I brought each of you into the moment with my thoughts and prayers. His words to the bishops were encouraging and challenging at the same time. What struck me as central to his talk was the theme of developing a “culture of encounter.”

I think the reporter from the Victoria Advocate may have picked it up well when I said that we seem to often be yelling at each other instead of talking with one another. With that I don’t necessarily mean physically yelling. I mean also that sometimes we don’t really take the time to listen to one another. Putting it in terms of the Prayer of St. Francis, it may mean that I need to ask: “Grant that I may not so much seek to be heard as to listen.”

In the middle of his speech to the bishops Pope Francis said:
“Dialogue is our method, not as a shrewd strategy but out of fidelity to the One who never wearies of visiting the marketplace, even at the eleventh hour, to propose his offer of love (Mt 20:1-16).”

Humility and Trust

When Pope Francis spoke to the members of Congress he referred to Thomas Merton as a notable American who remains “a source of spiritual inspiration and a guide for many people.” That reminded me of a prayer that I used to have taped to the mirror above my sink, and would pray every morning. This is a prayer that is called Thomas Merton’s Prayer for Discernment:

O Lord God, I have no idea where I am going, I do not see the road ahead of me, I cannot know for certain where it will end. Nor do I really know myself, And that fact that I think I am following Your will Does not mean that I am actually doing so. But I believe That the desire to please You Does in fact please You. And I hope I have that desire In all that I am doing. I hope that I will never do anything Apart from that desire to please You. And I know that if I do this You will lead me by the right road, Though I may know nothing about it. Therefore I will trust You always

Though I may seem to be lost And in the shadow of death. I will not fear. For You are ever with me, And You will never leave me To make my journey alone.

Source: Thomas Merton, Pax Christi, Benet Press, Erie, PA.

The prayer of humility and trust is a beautiful way to start the day. Placing before God my desire to serve Him and then trusting that God’s will somehow is fulfilled in this simple act of the humble heart are powerful prayers that lead us on the right path…. I think I just might put that prayer up on the mirror in my new home in Victoria.

Thank each of you for your warm welcome to me in the past three months. I have felt the effect of your prayers and have grown in my love and prayer for you as I visit the parish picnics, celebrate the Eucharist and speak with the school teachers and children. I’ve put a lot of miles on my car in these months and imagine that I’ll continue spending much time on the road in this big diocese! God bless you and your families, let’s keep one another in prayer,

+Brendan

Families must do more than just talk about vocations, speakers say

PHILADELPHIA (CNS) — If more people are going to answer the call to religious life, it will take more than words to attract their attention, according to four women religious who delivered a Sept. 23 presentation on vocations at the World Meeting of Families in Philadelphia. Parents must model what it means to have a relationship with Christ, they said, inviting children to discover their own call from God. “Children are nurtured when they see their parents take time away from the TV, computer or other distractions to be quiet, to reflect and to read Scripture.” With so many cultural distractions, she said, it is necessary for families to be more intentional about living their faith. When religious art is displayed on walls and Scripture stories are read to children, she said, homes can become the setting in which children “breathe in the beauty of their faith.” Sister Regina Marie Gorman, vicar general of the Carmelite Sisters of the Most Sacred Heart of Los Angeles, said children learn about God long before they learn to pray. It happens when they feel loved by the parents, she said.

SISTERLY
THOUGHTS
by Sister Mildred Truchard, IWBS

Beacons during Stormy Times

Some years ago I was talking to a young lady who had come to the U.S. to study in order to become an engineer. She had come from a small island in the Caribbean Sea. When I asked her what she found most challenging in this country, she replied that she was very confused about what was right and wrong. When I asked her what she meant, she explained that in her home country everyone was Catholic; thus civil laws were in accord with Catholic teaching. She didn’t have to worry about whether actions that were legal according to civil law might be morally wrong. Things she saw and heard puzzled her.

Maybe those of us who have lived in a society where our moral compasses have been tested have a greater awareness of the fact that although something may be legal, it might not be morally right, that it may degrade the dignity of persons or be detrimental to the well-being of society.

Perhaps, through our example and actions, we may be the beacons that guide others through the confusion that they may be experiencing in a world that seems to have lost its respect for quality of life for each person and for all creation. Moreover, through our understanding and concern for those who may have been misled, we may be able to extend a helping hand, a listening ear, and an encouraging word; by doing so, we may be able to lift them up, dust them off, and get them pointed on their way to a clearer awareness and understanding of the dignity of all God’s creation, especially all humanity.

So let us all be those beacons that guide our fellow pilgrims through stormy contentious times on the journey towards greater respect for each person and a more harmonious society in which civil laws are in accord with Catholic teaching.

BISHOP VISITS WEIMAR—The students and staff of St. Michael Catholic School in Weimar welcomed Bishop Brendan Cahill on Friday, September 18. Bishop Cahill celebrated Mass with the students and then spent the rest of the morning visiting with all the students in their classrooms.

Grandparents honored

MASS AND RECEPTION FOR GRANDPARENTS—Coinciding with Sunday, September 13, as National Grandparents Day, the St. Rose School in Schulenburg, weekly student Mass on Thursday, September 10, at St. Rose Church was dedicated to grandparents. Recognizing what an important role grandparents play in the family, especially in faith formation, St. Rose of Lima School takes time each year to honor grandparents. Following Mass, a short breakfast reception was hosted in the cafeteria. Grandparents then visited their grandchildren’s classrooms to see work and meet the teachers. Some students even presented gifts to their grandparents. In the photo at left, kindergartner Callie Janak presents her grandmother, Debbie Wick, with an art project she made for Grandparents Day. In the photo at the right, grandparents Sherry and Corky Bubela hug their granddaughters Ava and Bryn Bubela after Mass. The Catholic Church recognizes Sts. Joachin and Anne as the parents of Mary and grandparents of Jesus – their special intercession is asked upon all grandparents, living and deceased.

RESTORING HISTORY—Work in progress at Sts. Cyril and Methodius in Shiner. Picnic profits are being used to preserve the huge stained glass windows in our beautiful church. Several of the smaller windows have already been repaired. Now the first of the large windows to be carefully removed and sent to be completely reworked piece by piece. The last time the windows have been completely reworked were in 1990. Over time the welds start to separate. Restoration has always been high on the list of our historical structure to preserve what was built in 1921. So if you’re wondering what we do with picnic money, here are some pictures. The church windows project has been on hold pending the results of efforts to obtain grants. Restoration bid of each window is $38K. Although the initial grant proposals were denied, efforts are continuing to find additional funding. At this time using not only the picnic profits but funds from individual donors, and the repair fund. In the meantime, they found it necessary to proceed with this particular window since it was the one most in need of repairs.

Echoes 3.0 – A Grand Experience

Time is precious to everyone, and catechists and parish catechetical leaders are no different. However, formation and training in the teachings of the Church is essential for those who have been called to pass on the faith to children and youth in parish catechetical programs. Consequently, the catechetical office launched Echoes 3.0, an online catechist formation program, which is the most comprehensive tool available for methodology, theology, and catechetical training for catechists and parish catechetical leaders.

The online version of Echoes of Faith (Echoes 3.0) allows catechists learning experiences that may not be available to them otherwise. Distance and times of scheduled face-to-face classes may render classes impossible for the busy catechist who may have heavy family and/or occupational obligations.

The Echoes 3.0 modules begin with a spiritual reflection on which catechists can reflect on their own spiritual development and where God has been recognized in the blessings and challenges of their personal life. The modules place emphasis on the spiritual development of the catechist so that they can intensify their relationship with God and thus be able to instruct students by example as well as by instruction. Hypothetical scenarios that are presented in the modules require that the catechist actively consider his/her response to the follow-up questions. There is no sitting back listening to what other catechists are saying in a traditional face-to-face class.

Sac Dao, parish catechetical leader at Assumption Chapel in Palacios who began using Echoes 3.0 this summer stated, “My experience with Echoes 3.0 was wonderful. Convenience was one the reasons why I liked the program so much. I was able to complete almost all the available courses in one summer at a time when I didn’t have to go to work and could proceed with the lessons at my own speed and be at the location where I am most comfortable – home. The quality of the Echoes 3.0 program was the other reason. The articles, the speakers on the videos and most of the questions were chosen and done at an excellent level – very worthwhile for my time because I did learn a lot and had to slow down to reflect on my journey/life of faith. For these reasons, I feel I have become a better disciple and have gained more knowledge and have a better understanding about my Catholic faith and my faith journey. The small segments that were designed in each module made each lesson more manageable and more tolerable for my busy schedule, also. After completing each segment I received a sense of accomplishment and that inspired me to move on to the next segment and from one module to another module. Lastly, I was able save my notes and save the articles for later use or to share with other people.

Maria Aldana, parish catechetical leader at St. Robert Catholic Church in El Campo, said that the training and formation, which she received from the catechetical and theological modules of Echoes 3.0 was a ‘grand experience’ for her. She said, “it became a ‘friendly online adventure’ each time she opened another module.” Aldana also said that Echoes 3.0 lends itself for self-pacing, the catechist interest level, assessment, enrichment and review.

It is an outstanding way to provide for and to allow ownership of one’s ongoing faith formation even with a busy schedule. My expectation was and is ongoing transformation and life changing experiences, and Echoes 3.0 was a means for my own personal spiritual growth as well as furthering my understanding of the Catholic faith. I personally invite you (parish catechetical leaders and catechists) to take advantage of the opportunity to learn and grow with Echoes of Faith 3.0 and have a “Grand Experience”.

This catechist formation program is available free of charge for all catechists and parish catechetical leaders for one year. Call Christella Alvarez or Sherry Kainer at (361) 573-0828 for more information or visit www.victoriadiocese.org.

Resurrecting Bishop Forest High School with museum on local campus

SCHULENBURG—Construction on the Bishop Forest High School Museum is now underway, according to Carol Strobel Kana, secretary-treasurer of the alumni association that is managing all aspects of the project.

Contractors are on the job, the display cases have arrived and a treasure-trove of memorabilia is already stored on-site at Blinn College in Schulenburg where the museum will be located,” Kana said. “It’s exciting to see this project, which has been in the planning stages for four years, move toward completion.”

Bishop Forest High School opened in September 1956 with 56 freshmen and 27 sophomore students registered. Enrollment in the Catholic school peaked at 278 students in 1964. By 1966, 410 students had graduated representing not only the city of Schulenburg, but also the surrounding communities of High Hill, Dubina, Ammansville, St. John, Hostyn, Holman, Weimar, Moravia, Praha, Columbus and Flatonia. The school closed its doors in 1989 due to changing times that affected enrollment and different funding priorities of the church.

“Many people have asked, ‘Why bother with a museum? Bishop Forest High School is history,’ Kana said. “And that’s exactly why members of the alumni have worked hard to make this museum happen. Schools like Bishop Forest started up after the one-room schools closed. They certainly left their mark in history and we think our school did, too.”

“We also are keenly aware that as the years go by, the harder it gets to preserve pieces of local history like Bishop Forest High School,” she added. “We lose former students and memorabilia disappears.”

The Bishop Forest Alumni Association gratefully accepts tax-deductible donations from former students, as well as anyone interested in local historical landmark preservation. The association also hopes the museum will be remembered with memorial gifts honoring alumni and former teachers.

For more information about helping the Bishop Forest High School Museum prosper, call Kana at (979) 263-5654 or email her at ckana@cvctx.com. Checks should be made out to Bishop Forest Alumni Association and mailed to Carol Kana, 7640 Anders Bottom Road, La Grange, TX 78945.

From A Pastor’s Desk

By Rev. Tim Kosler
St. Rose of Lima Church, Schulenburg

Answering the question who Jesus is may appear quite simple for those who label themselves a Christian. But how much does the Jesus of our minds resemble the Jesus who asks the question, “Who do People say that I am?”

We have heard his story over and over. We have even told it over and over. But is the story we tell about the real Jesus or one we have invented? Is he a plastic Jesus molded in our image and likeness, or is the Jesus of our faith the real Jesus who invites us to pattern ourselves in his image and likeness?
Incarnate Word Celebrates with New Associates

Incarnate Word Convent Chapel was filled on Sunday, September 13, 2015, with excitement. The entrance procession included nine men and women who, after more than a year of prayer, study and discernment, had come before the Sisters and about 85 Associates, to make their consecration as Associates of the Incarnate Word. They also invited family members to witness this joyful occasion.

Many others renewed their commitments for one or five years.

Bishop Brendan Cahill celebrated the Mass and presided at the Consecration and Renewal along with the Superior, Sister Stephana Marbach and their director, Sister Emiliana Grafe. Also con-celebrating Father Michael Petering, Chaplain Father Phi Nguyen, Father Charles Otsiwah and Father Philip Brune.

ANNUAL SAFE ENVIRONMENT WORKSHOPS—In the month of September Melissa Perales (inset), director for the Office of Child and Youth Protection has conducted 5 Workshops—2 in Victoria, 1 in La Grange, 1 in Bay City and 1 in Edna and trained over 120 individuals. Each Safe Environment trainer, site administrator and transportation facilitator received pertinent information regarding changes to the USCCB auditing process.

Argentine family on 13,000-mile road trip to Philadelphia to see pope

RALEIGH, N.C. (CNS) – The Walker family filed through the side entrance of Sacred Heart Cathedral in Raleigh. A bag on her shoulder and a 3-year-old on her hip, mom Noel Zemborain smiled. A pack at his waist, dad Catire Walker held the door as their three older children passed by. At least 50 adults from Father Crespo García’s Bible study were awaiting the arrival. They clapped and cheered at the announcement; some of their children twirled in the aisle. It isn’t every day one meets travelers who’ve logged 13,000 miles in a 1980 Volkswagen Kombi bus. The Walker family departed Buenos Aires, Argentina, in March. Their goal was to reach Pope Francis and the World Meeting of Families in Philadelphia, which opened Sept. 22 and officially ended with a Mass celebrated by the pope Sept. 27 on the Benjamin Franklin Parkway. Earlier that day the whole family got their wish – they were granted an audience with the pope. CBS News reported there were laughs and hugs all around, and the Vatican spokesman, Jesuit Father Federico Lombardi, said meeting the family touched the pope “very, very much.”

Dublin to host next World Meeting of Families – in 2018

PHILADELPHIA (CNS) – Irish pilgrims in Philadelphia shared their excitement after Archbishop Vincenzo Paglia, president of the Pontifical Council for the Family, announced the 2018 World Meeting of Families would be held in Dublin. Irish pilgrim Mary Fitzgibbon’s reaction was raw when she spoke with Catholic News Service. She had traveled to Philadelphia with her husband, Michael, and five children, ages 2-14, but had missed Archbishop Paglia’s announcement Sept. 27. She heard it first from CNS. “I’m shaking,” she said, explaining she had written a letter of appeal to the papal nuncio to Ireland, asking if the next World Meeting of Families could be held in Ireland “because we need it.” “The faith is still deep there and has taken such a beating,” she said. She described present-day Ireland as being in “a very difficult place, where there’s been a push for a secular agenda” and “strong anti-church sentiment, particularly driven by the media. Marriages are in a bad way. Many people have lost the sense of what marriage is,” said Fitzgibbon, who lives in Tralee, County Kerry.

Pope urges U.S. Catholics to keep enthusiasm, welcome newcomers

PHILADELPHIA (CNS) – Pope Francis ended his trip to the United States with a call for Catholics to keep the enthusiasm of the visit, while continuing to welcome newcomers and care for creation. “Do not let your enthusiasm for Jesus, his church, our families, and the broader family of society run dry,” Pope Francis said at Philadelphia International Airport, prior to flying back to Rome. “I pray that our days of prayer and reflection on the importance of the family for a healthy society will inspire families to continue to strive for holiness and to see the church as their constant companion, whatever the challenges they may face.” In just over five full days in the U.S., Pope Francis reaffirmed the importance of church and family life, pleaded for inclusive attitudes toward immigrants, reiterated the right of religious freedom and called for action on climate change and care for creation. The trip reaffirmed the pope’s enormous popularity with Catholics and non-Catholics alike as large crowds convened – even with tight security – while media coverage was comprehensive. Pope Francis, who met again with Vice President Joe Biden just prior to leaving Sept. 27, acknowledged the warmth of the welcome in his final remarks. “Your care for me and your generous welcome are a sign of your love for Jesus and your faithfulness to him. So, too, is your care for the poor, the sick, the homeless and the immigrant, your defense of life at every stage, and your concern for family life,” Pope Francis said. “In all of this, you recognize that Jesus is in your midst and that your care for one another is care for Jesus himself.”
Pope canonizes Junipero Serra, says faith is alive only when shared

WASHINGTON (CNS) – Canonizing the 18th-century Spanish missionary, Blessed Junipero Serra, Pope Francis insisted a person’s faith is alive only when it is shared.

Celebrating a late afternoon Mass outside the Basilica of the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception Sept. 23, the pope declared the holiness of St. Junipero, founder of a string of missions in California.

Some people had objected to the canonization – like the beatification of the Spaniard in 1988 – because of questions about how Father Serra treated the native peoples of California and about the impact of Spanish colonization on native peoples throughout the Americas.

Pope Francis mentioned the controversy only briefly, saying: “Junipero sought to defend the dignity of the native community, to protect it from those who had mistreated and abused it. Mistreatment and wrongs, which today still trouble us, especially because of the hurt which they cause in the lives of many people.”

Vincent Medina, who has questioned the wisdom of the canonization, read the first Scripture reading in the Chochenyo language of the Ohlone people of Northern California.

Catholics in the United States and throughout the world are indebted to St. Junipero and thousands of other witnesses who lived their faith and passed it on, the pope said in his homily.

St. Junipero “was excited about blazing trails, going forth to meet many people, learning and valuing their particular customs and ways of life,” Pope Francis said.

A mission’s life is exciting and brings joy, he said, because it is not sedentary or turned in on itself. Sharing the Gospel is the way to keep experiencing the joy it brings and keeps the heart “from growing numb from being anesthetized.”

More than speaking about St. Junipero, Pope Francis spoke about keeping faith alive and joyful, calling on all Catholics to be missionaries.

“Mission is never the fruit of a perfectly planned program or a well-organized manual,” he told the crowd of about 25,000 people.

“Mission is always the fruit of a life which knows what it is to be found and healed, encountered and forgiven.”

Local Note: The Serra Club of the Diocese of Victoria Northwest celebrated the canonization by displaying a statue of St. Junipero Serra in the sanctuary of Sacred Heart Church, Hallettsville from September 23-27.

After strike, Christian schools open in Israel

JERUSALEM (CNS) – Christian schools opened in Israel Sept. 28 after an almost monthlong strike demanding equality in budgeting. School officials and the Ministry of Education reached an agreement just before the Jewish Sukkot holiday.

“We see this as a wonderful achievement as we…not only got a one-time sum but (also) a committee (dealing) with the change of the legal status of the schools will be established, and that will bring a long-term solution,” the Secretariat of Christian Schools in Israel said in a statement released Sept. 27. According to the agreement, the Israeli Treasury will allocate a one-time sum of $12.7 million to the Christian schools in the current school year. Christian school teachers also will be included in the different professional development programs of the Ministry of Education – they had been excluded – and students will be included in the additional strengthening hours provided by the Ministry of Education for different subjects. The Ministry of Education will continue to pay the monthly payments for the Christian schools as usual – thereby allowing the schools to reduce tuition by 25 percent for their primary students – and the schools will compensate the students for the days lost during the strike.

There are 47 Christian schools in Israel with a total of 33,000 students.

Marriage is forever: Pope’s reform requires proof union was invalid

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — Pope Francis’ reformed rules for marriage annulment cases, making the process simpler, quicker and less expensive, respond to calls that bishops from around the world have been making since before the 1980 Synod of Bishops on the family convoked by St. John Paul II.

Catholic marriage tribunals do not dissolve marriages, but assess whether or not a valid sacramental marriage was present from the beginning. Catholics whose first unions are declared “null” — meaning there never was a marriage — are free to marry in the church and receive the sacraments, including reconciliation and Communion.

With the new rules released Sept. 8, Pope Francis made the process quicker, but did not make it easier for couples to prove a union was not a marriage. He removed the requirement that all decrees of nullity must be confirmed by a second panel of judges; he urged dioceses around the world to make the process free or as close to free as possible; and he established a “brief process” by which diocesan bishops can recognize the nullity of a union when both parties agree and have overwhelming proof their union did not meet at least one of the Catholic Church’s requirements for a sacramental marriage.

According to the website of the U.S. Conference of Catholic Bishops: “A valid Catholic marriage results from five elements: (1) the spouses are free to marry; (2) they freely exchange their consent; (3) in consenting to marry, they have the intention to marry for life, to be faithful to one another and open to children; (4) they intend the good of each other; and (5) their consent is given in the presence of two witnesses and before a properly authorized church minister.”

The need to reform the annulment process and cut the costs was supported by an overwhelming majority of bishops — about 90 percent — at last year’s extraordinary Synod of Bishops on the family.

Pope Francis’ new rules respond to that request. He said except for what is needed for an appropriate salary for tribunal workers, the annulment process should be free “so that, in a matter so closely tied to the salvation of souls, the church — by demonstrating to the faithful that she is a generous mother — may demonstrate the gratuitous love of Christ, which saves us all.”

Lawyers working at the Roma Rota, a Vatican court, are paid 300-400 euros (about $330-$450) for each case even if those cases take several years to complete, said Msgr. Pio Vito Pinto, dean of the Rota. He did not say what other fees are charged, but “70 percent to 80 percent” of the cases are heard for free.

The U.S. bishops’ website notes that the fees vary from diocese to diocese within the United States with several dioceses already waiving all fees. “Most tribunals charge between $200 and $1,000 for a formal case depending on how much the diocese subsidizes the work of the tribunal,” the bishops’ website says.

According to the Statistical Yearbook of the Church 2013, a Vatican-published catalogue of statistics, just over 26 percent of the cases in the United States are heard for free; close to 30 percent require partial payment by the petitioner; and in 44 percent of the cases, the petitioners pay all costs.

Although the new rules respond to most bishops’ sense that the annulment process was too cumbersome, they do not resolve all the cases of Catholics who want to return to the sacraments after they are divorced and civilly remarried without having an annulment.

Cardinal Walter Kasper and others insist mercy is the highest expression of God’s justice and love, and that the church has the power to forgive those couples, who want to start again, living the Catholic faith in their new relationship.

Other church leaders insist just as strongly that Jesus himself made it impossible to dissolve a valid marriage and that without a decree stating the valid marriage never existed couples in a new union are, in effect, living in adultery.

Theme for 2016 communications day to focus on mercy, dialogue

VATICAN CITY (CNS) — For World Communications Day 2016, Pope Francis has chosen the theme “Communication and Mercy: A fruitful encounter.” As the church celebrates the extraordinary Holy Year of Mercy, which begins Dec. 8, the pope also wanted to invite deeper reflection on the link between communication and mercy, said a statement from the Pontifical Council for Social Communications.

A Culture of Encounter and Prayers for Life

The path ahead, then, is dialogue among yourselves, dialogue in your presbyterates, dialogue with lay persons, dialogue with families, dialogue with society. I cannot ever tire of encouraging you to dialogue fearlessly…. Otherwise, we fail to understand the thinking of others, or to realize deep down that the brother or sister we wish to reach and redeem, with the power and the closeness of love, counts more than their positions, distant as they may be from what we hold as true and certain. Harsh and divisive language does not befit the tongue of a pastor, it has no place in his heart; although it may momentarily seem to win the day, only the enduring allure of goodness and love remains truly convincing.

As you can imagine these are powerful words to consider as we prepare to enter into a Year of Mercy. The theme that Pope Francis has asked us to consider in this great Jubilee of Mercy is Merciful like the Father. In his letter announcing the Jubilee of Mercy, #14 Pope Francis wrote: “Human beings, whenever they judge, look no farther than the surface, whereas the Father looks into the very depths of the soul. How much harm words do when they are motivated by feelings of jealousy and envy! To speak ill of others puts them in a bad light, undermines their reputation and leaves them prey to the whims of gossip. To refrain from judgement and condemnation means, in a positive sense, to know how to accept the good in every person and to spare him any suffering that might be caused by our partial judgment, our presumption to know everything about him.”

With these words in mind I ask your prayers for a group of us who will be praying for the end of abortion and the protection of innocent life at a Planned Parenthood Clinic in Houston on October 19. We will be praying with “the power and closeness of love” for all those affected by this evil industry. I know that we will need the assistance of your prayers as we pray the Rosary that day. Maybe we could use the image of visiting the marketplace at the eleventh hour to guide all our actions and prayers in this month dedicated to “Respect Life.”

Al visitar la cárcel, el papa dice que todas las personas necesitan el perdón, la limpieza

FILADELFIA (CNS) – Mientras los peregrinos en Filadelfia tuvieron que aguantar un largo fin de semana de líneas y controles de seguridad en los lugares a donde iría el papa, el papa se acercó a un grupo de personas cuya vida son las líneas y los controles de seguridad, al mismo tiempo, durante años. El papa Francisco pasó alrededor de una hora en el Centro Correccional de Curran-Fromhold. Entró en el gimnasio desde atrás de una cortina azul, caminando por el pequeño escenario inspeccionando cuidadosamente la enorme silla que los internos habían hecho para él. Se dio la vuelta, con una gran sonrisa en su rostro, y le dio a los internos un sincero saludo de buena suerte del papa Francisco, con los pulgares levantados hacia arriba. Mientras en los EE.UU. se debate la necesidad de una reforma penal, el papa Francisco dijo que las cárcel deben centrarse en la rehabilitación, e insistió en que nadie es perfecto y sin necesidad de perdón. Mientras que su discurso se dirigía principalmente a los internos, también asistieron un pequeño grupo de sus familiares, funcionarios de la prisión, legisladores estatales, y funcionarios de la ciudad, entre ellos el alcalde de Filadelfia, Michael Nutter. Unos 20 minutos antes de que el papa llegara – antes de lo previsto – Nutter saludó a cada uno de los reclusos, que vestían pantalones oscuros y camisas de color azul claro, mientras eran conducidos al gimnasio. Michele Farrell, director de la cárcel, dijo más tarde a Catholic News Service que el papa “nos tiró una bola curva llegando temprano”. A los reclusos se les dijo que no podían hablar con los presos hasta después de que el papa se fuera. El diácono Ed Dymek, quien ejerce su ministerio en la prisión, dijo a CNS, “Allí está el papa esperanza”.

El papa se reúne con víctimas de abuso del clero y dice que los crímenes no pueden quedar en secreto

FILADELFIA (CNS) – El papa Francisco se reunió con un grupo de sobrevivientes de abusos sexuales, el 27 de septiembre, y más tarde dijo a los obispos que se sentía abrumado por un sentimiento de vergüenza, y que estaba comprometido a pedir cuentas a quienes perjudicaron a los niños. En una reunión con cardenales, obispos, sacerdotes y seminaristas en San Carlos Borromeo, el obispo prologó su discurso sobre la importancia de la familia diciendo que se había reunido con el grupo, tal como había sido arreglado por el arzobispo de Filadelfia, Charles J. Chaput. El Vaticano dijo que la reunión de 30 minutos, con tres mujeres y dos hombres abusados por miembros del clero o por sus familias o por sus maestros, se llevó a cabo en el seminario, poco antes de que el papa hablara a los obispos. “Están grabados en mi corazón, las historias, el sufrimiento y el dolor de los niños víctimas de abusos por parte de sacerdotes”, dijo el papa. “Sigo sintiendo una abrumadora sensación de vergüenza, porque aquellos que tenían a su cargo a los más pequeños les causaron un gran daño. “Estoy profundamente apenado. Dios llora”, dijo. Dijo que “los crímenes y pecados de los abusos sexuales de los niños ya no pueden permanecer en secreto” y que él se “compromete a una estrecha vigilancia de la iglesia para proteger a los niños, y prometo que todos los responsables tendrán que rendir cuentas.”
As New Commercial Airs, Knights of Columbus Fund Month’s Supply of Food for Iraqi Christians

New Haven, Conn. – As September began, the Knights of Columbus was unveiling a new television commercial and would finance the delivery of one month’s supply of food to more than 13,500 displaced families from Mosul and Nineveh who fled to the Erbil area in Kurdistan.

The food assistance is part of the organization’s multi-million dollar initiative to aid displaced Christian families and those from other persecuted religious communities in the Middle East. This donation for food will bring the Knights of Columbus assistance in the Middle East to more than $34 million overall.

Each one month food package typically contains 10 kg of rice, 5 kg of sugar, 4 liters of cooking oil, 1200 g of tomato sauce, 4 kg of beans, 10 kg of wheat, 1 kg of pasta, 6 packets of cheese, 5 tins of fish, 5 tins of meat, and 1 kg of tea. The cost of $60 per package includes transportation and packaging for a total cost of $81,000.

At the same time, the Knights of Columbus was also airing a TV commercial that features an Iraqi priest who now runs a refugee camp near Erbil, and who previously was kidnapped and tortured by extremists.

In thecommercial Father Douglas Bazi begs viewers to “pray for my people, help my people,” and adds “I believe you can.” He also notes that “genocide is the easy word for what is happening to my people.” The commercial will air nationally this month and can be viewed at https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=YHeqSk2omdE

“Christians in the Middle East face persecution and extinction simply for their belief in the one who taught us to love one another,” said Supreme Knight Carl Anderson. “Despite the genocidal persecution against them, they have continued to be an inspiration to the power of their faith, and to the love of God and neighbor. They need our solidarity and support, and we are pleased to help provide it.”

Chaldean Archbishop Bashar Warda of Erbil attended the Knights of Columbus international convention in Philadelphia in August, as did Melkite Archbishop Jean Clement Jeanbart of Aleppo, Syria. At the convention Supreme Knight Carl Anderson announced that the Knights would redouble its efforts on behalf of Middle Eastern Christians.

Those wishing to assist with the relief efforts can donate by visiting www.christiansatrisk.org or by sending checks or money orders payable to Knights of Columbus Charities at P.O. Box 1966, New Haven, CT 06509-1966. The memo portion should indicate that the check is for Christian Refugee Relief.

One hundred percent of all donations directly supports humanitarian assistance and raising awareness for persecuted Christians and other religious minorities, especially in the Middle East. Donations are tax deductible to the extent allowed by law. Knights of Columbus Charities, Inc., is recognized by the IRS as a charitable organization under section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

Pope Concludes Trip to United States with Mass—Pope Francis leaves in procession after celebrating the closing Mass of the VIII World Meeting of Families on Benjamin Franklin Parkway in Philadelphia September 27. Allyson Klimitchek (inset), parishioner and teacher at Sacred Heart in Hallettsville, went to Philadelphia to see the pope on Saturday, September 26. She said, “It was amazing! I was so excited and then the tears flowed. To be in the presence of this holy man, see him live waving and smiling was so beautiful! He went by so fast though, that pope mobile was moving!” She left that with the hopes to get another glimpse of Pope Francis the next day. And she did. Allyson said, “Mass was an absolutely awesome experience! A friend and I made it through just in time before they quit letting people in for Mass. It was amazing to be there with all the people from all over the world! I was able to receive Holy Communion and was so moved. It really puts into perspective what it means to be in communion with the Body of Jesus Christ and this meeting as large as it is, is only still a small glimpse of Christ’s Body! Finally it was incredible receiving the Pope’s blessing, so blessed!” (CNS photo/Paul Haring)

Pray a Rosary · October Month of the Holy Rosary

It is always a good practice to offer the Rosary in your home. Perhaps during the month of October, you and your family will take up the practice of praying the Rosary at least once a week, or daily when possible. What a blessing it would be to turn off the television, the phones, the computer and all other distractions and simply gather with your family for some quality time with our Blessed Mother. Certainly all of us need some respite from our daily activities and nothing could be better than spending prayer time in the company of the people you love.

No Time To Pray As A Family? ~ There’s A Free App For That!

New Mobile App Helps Families Pray Each Day with Feature to Post Prayer Petition Directly to World Meeting of Families

Family Rosary now offers a free mobile app to guide families through a short prayer each day. With beautiful images, scripture, meaningful reflection and an inspiring quote from Pope Francis, families can have an enriching prayer experience every day – right in their hands.

The Daily Family Prayer app includes a special feature that allows families to post a prayer that will go directly to the Rosary Sacred Space at The World Meeting of Families where it will be prayed during the Pope’s visit.

“Families are busy, very busy! We hope this app will make it super easy to weave family prayer into their day,” said Susan Wallace, Director of Marketing. “We all want to pray. We want to enrich our family’s spirituality. This app can help families in a very simple, yet meaningful way. As our founder said, ‘the family that prays together stays together.’”

The free app is available for download on iTunes and Google Play. A version is also available on iTunes for the new iWatch! The mobile app was created for the World Meeting of Families and the Papal Visit to Philadelphia Sept. 22-27. For more information on the app, go to www.FamilyRosary.org/PrayerApp.

This is the fourth mobile app offered by Family Rosary. The first – Pray the Rosary – has already topped 90,000 in downloads at iTunes.

In the spirit of its founder, Servant of God Patrick Peyton, Holy Cross Family Ministries encourages family prayer, especially the Rosary, to support the spiritual well-being of the family through events and media. Family Rosary is a member ministry of Holy Cross Family Ministries.
