Making Travel Sacred

Above is a montage of pictures of various places to make a pilgrimage here in the state of Texas. Just to name a few places include The Grotto at the Oblate College of Theology, Basilica of the Little Flower both in San Antonio, Basilica of the National Shrine of Our Lady of San Juan del Valle in San Juan, and all the painted churches that are in the Diocese of Victoria and surrounding dioceses.

By Ceci Triska

Pilgrimage: verb, a journey to a place of special meaning.

People make all sorts of journeys to places that have special meaning to them. For some, it is to attend a baseball game at all the different ballparks around the country. For others it might mean to visit every theme park, or perhaps to ski at different resorts.

As a Christian, the word pilgrimage has a deeper meaning. We go on pilgrimage to sacred places to enrich our faith, to pray for divine help for ourselves or loved ones, in thanksgiving for answered prayers, or as a sacrifice. St. John Paul II said, “the key reason to go on pilgrimage is to seek Jesus Christ in some way.”

The word pilgrimage intimidates people sometimes. It sounds like only special or holy people should go on such a trip. One has to remember that we are all pilgrims making our way to Heaven. A faith journey helps us get a little closer to this goal. According to The New Concise Catholic Dictionary: “A pilgrim journeys to a Christian Shrine or other holy place to grow in holiness and undertake devotions that honor Mary and the saints, to do penance, to give thanks to God, to complete a vow, or ask for divine help.”

Dear Brothers and Sisters,

Three years ago I attended a workshop for all the newly ordained Bishops from around the world. After the workshop I wrote in the Lighthouse about an experience meeting a Bishop from Aleppo, Syria and following up on his request to keep the people of Syria in my prayer. I’m still keeping him and the people of Aleppo in prayer – for peace and for the protection of each family. As we’ve been praying many Catholic organizations have been offering support for the suffering people of the area. Please continue to keep the people of Aleppo and Syria in prayer.

Another experience I had during that workshop occurred one evening when I decided to have dinner at a Spanish-speaking table. During the first few days I stayed pretty close to the English speakers and my small group activities were with the English-speaking group. When I finally got up the nerve to sit at the Spanish-speaking table I approached a group of Bishops who were speaking Spanish. They were from Colombia and I was able to say that I had been to Colombia. I shared with them that some of our seminarians at St. Mary’s Seminary in Houston had come from a diocese called Malaga and Soata in the northern mountains of Colombia.

One time I was able to visit Malaga and Soata for the Deacon Ordination of two seminarians (who now are pastors in Bastrop and Austin). I had the chance to visit their families and thank them for their sons’ vocations to serve in the U.S., and even had some barbecue on their rooftops! When I was sharing with the Bishops and my experiences in Colombia, one of the Bishops told me – “look over there; he is the new Bishop of Malaga and Soata.” Soon I met Bishop Jose Libardo Garces and we started talking and sharing stories.

We now have two priests from Malaga and Soata serving in our diocese. I’m hoping we will soon have a third priest from there serving here in Victoria. Bishop Libardo Garces has visited me here in Victoria and this month I’m going back to Colombia – hopefully to once again express gratitude to the families who have their sons serving as priests here in the U.S. I may even be able to show them the picture from the Victoria Advocate at Eastertime which identified the man in the cowboy hat as “Bishop Brendan Cahill.” The man in the cowboy hat at Santisima Trinidad that day was Father Eliecer Patiño – from Colombia!

May the Lord continue to bless you and your families in this summer season with His peace. Once again I ask that as St. John Paul II encouraged us to pray the rosary with confidence, we pray with and for one another that we may be grateful for the beautiful truth shared with men and women from around the world.

Queridos Hermanos y Hermanas,

Hace tres años asistí a un taller para todos los Obispos recién ordenados de todo el mundo. Después del taller, escribí en el Lighthouse acerca de una experiencia en la que me reuní con un obispo de Alepo, Siria y hice un seguimiento de su solicitud de mantener a la gente de Siria en mi oración. Todavía lo mantengo a él y a la gente de Alepo en oración, por la paz y por la protección de cada familia. Mientras hemos estado orando, muchas organizaciones católicas han estado ofreciendo apoyo a las personas que sufren en el área. Por favor, continúe manteniendo en oración a la gente de Alepo y Siria.

Otra experiencia que tuve durante ese taller ocurrió una noche cuando decidí cenar en una mesa de habla española. Durante los primeros días permanecí bastante cerca de los hablantes de inglés y mis actividades en grupos pequeños fueron con el grupo que hablaba inglés. Cuando finalmente tuve el valor de sentarme en la mesa donde hablaban español, me acerqué a un grupo de obispos que estaban hablando en su idioma. Eran de Colombia, y pude decir que había estado en Colombia. Compartí con ellos que algunos de nuestros seminaristas en el Seminario de Santa María en Houston provenían de una diócesis llamada Málaga y Soata, en las montañas del norte de Colombia.

Una vez pude visitar Málaga y Soata para la Ordenación de Diáconos de dos seminaristas (que ahora son pastores en Bastrop y Austin). Tuve la oportunidad de visitar a sus familias y agradecerles las vocaciones de sus hijos para servir en los Estados Unidos. Me incluso tuve una carne asada en sus techos! Cuando estuve compartiendo con los obispos y mis experiencias en Colombia, uno de los obispos me dijo: “mire allí; Él es el nuevo obispo de Málaga y Soata” . De pronto conocí al obispo José Libardo Garces y comenzamos a hablar y compartir historias.

Ahora tenemos dos sacerdotes de Málaga y Soata sirviendo en nuestra diócesis. Espero que pronto tengamos un tercer sacerdote de allí sirviendo aquí en Victoria. El obispo Libardo Garces me ha visitado aquí en Victoria y este mes vuelvo a Colombia; espero poder expresar una vez más nuestra gratitud a las familias que tienen a sus hijos como sacerdotes aquí en los Estados Unidos. Es posible que incluso pueda mostrárselas la imagen del Victoria Advocate en el tiempo de Pascua que identificó al hombre del sombrero de vaquero como “Obispo Brendan Cahill”; El hombre del sombrero de vaquero en Santisima Trinidad ese día fue el Padre Eliecer Patiño - de Colombia!

Que el Señor continúe bendiciéndole a usted y a sus familias en esta temporada de verano con Su paz. Una vez más, les pido que, mientras San Juan Pablo II nos animó a rezar el rosario con confianza, oramos unos con otros y por los demás, para que podamos estar agradecidos por la hermosa verdad compartida con hombres y mujeres de todo el mundo.

• High Standards in a Catholic Education

They also demonstrate that Catholic schools rise to the high standards of instruction for today’s world demands.

Our schools challenge students and teachers to go beyond the status quo and exceed expectations. Promoting excellence in academics, encouraging spiritual growth, and assisting in the formation of students in...

MIND...

Every student has the potential to succeed and with a comprehensive academic environment conducive to educational reflection and study, as found in the many Catholic Schools of our diocese, students are given a strong foundation on which to build bright academic futures.

“Back to School” are words that elicit strong reactions in the hearts of many of us. For some, especially those youngsters who dislike school or who prefer outdoor or unstructured activities, these words evoke feelings of dread of imprisonment as the thought of school looms uppermost in their mind. While these folks may have our sympathy, we encourage them to try to make the best of it and think of the more positive aspects of the school setting such as recess, holidays, weekends, friend, sports, music, etc. and who knows- they have a new chance of coping and achieving success in their studies and/or school activities. It is amazing what grace, good will, and extra effort can do.

Fortunately, most of our young folks anticipate the opportunity to return to school later this month. The thought of meeting old school friends again, showing off and using the new school supplies, clothing, and backpacks, being curious about new classes with new teachers and wondering about the new things they’ll be learning all override any anxieties that may surface.

It’s not only young folks who are looking forward to the beginning of the school year. I’ll bet that there are many parents, grandparents, and folks that take care of youngsters that are quietly rejoicing that the children are going to be involved in new adventures at school. Although they continue to understand that they are the God-given primary educators of their children, they will appreciate this partnership with schools. No longer will they have to be alone in their task of keeping their young charges’ mind busy developing talents and interests or to avoid mischief or hearing “boring!” complaints. Ah! blessed relief!

Now what about the rest of us? How are we approaching the school of life which provides so many challenges in our daily existence? Are we using the opportunities to learn and enhance our spiritual life, our mental, social, and emotional lives, - and for chances that can freshen our outlook on life? I know of some retirees who feel isolated because it seems that life is passing them by. At the same time, there is great need for volunteers for Church, school, and civic activities in which life experience is a plus. Religious education teaching, and tutoring, mentoring, and other activities are excellent ways of fulfilling our baptismal role of bringing Jesus to others through our efforts and our example.

There are many so venues of learning available: Check with your places of worship to see what is being offered. The Diocese of Victoria provides various activities and resources. Public libraries are often well stocked with books and media resources. Civic groups often have interesting programs.

Friends and neighbors can often give copious information on hobbies and crafts that you might like to explore.

So, volunteer, learn something new, start a garden, get into “Back to School” mode, and continue to become the wonderful person God created you to be. Your enthusiasm and consequent conversation will inspire others, including those youngsters who are getting ready for a new academic experience.
Diocesan Youth Attend Rocky Mountain High Retreat

YOUTH EXPERIENCE GOD’S PEACE—The Office of Youth and Young Adult Ministry sponsors the Rocky Mountain High Retreat each summer, in the heart of the San Juan Mountains, in Southern Colorado. More than thirty youth and young adults along with Bishop Brendan Cahill and Father Philip Brune attended from the Diocese of Victoria this year. They experienced the wonder and grandeur of the great outdoors and spent time reflecting on important issues of life, faith, family, and friends.

Friendships That Endure A Lifetime
There are many reasons to attend the 32nd Annual Catholic Conference, Saturday, October 19, 2019, at St. Joseph High School in Victoria.

The first, the keynote presentation by Lucia Baez Luzondo and many of the workshops will address the “family.” Today, more than ever, the Church is focusing on the family. In The Vocation and Mission of the Family in the Church and the Contemporary World, the bishops’ state, “Within the family are joys and trials, deep love and relationships, which at times, can be wounded. The family is truly the ‘school of humanity’ (Gaudium et Spes, 52), which is much needed today.”

Second, blessed to have many of the local clergy and lay professionals offer a variety of workshops throughout the day. All workshops and descriptions are available at www.victoriadiocese.org, under the Office of Catechetical Ministry tab.

Third, there is something for everyone. With over 30 workshops in English and six in Spanish, ranging from liturgical topics, to sacramental preparation, to prayer, and many catechetical workshops, it will be hard to choose.

It will be a great day to gather as family. All adult Catholics are invited to attend. Additional information can be found on the diocesan website: www.victoriadiocese.org or by contacting Christella Alvarez at (361) 827-7171 or Brunilda Ortiz at (361) 573-0828. Registration for this event will begin in September 2019.

Pastoral Institute

Explore the Gospels and the Book of Revelation

The Bible is a difficult book to understand. Come learn how to read and better understand God’s message to us in the Bible. The Church tells us that the Scriptures are an important means of inspiration and a great help for prayer. “Only in the context of the Church’s faith and tradition as a whole can the full meaning of the Bible be discovered,” states Father Donald Senior, C.P. (editor of the Catholic Study Bible). Therefore, the Pastoral Institute continues to offer courses on the Scriptures for all adults in the Diocese of Victoria. The courses will be offered on Tuesday mornings and Thursday evenings at the Chancery in Victoria and at Holy Cross, East Bernard.

Beginning in September 2019, Sr. Digna Vela, IWBS, will lead us in a six-week course Introduction to the New Testament and the Synoptic Gospels. In this course, Sr. Digna will offer a brief introduction to the New Testament, highlighting the social, religious, and political environment of Jesus’ time. We will see how the Holy Spirit through the Gospel writers gives us three different and unique portraits of Jesus, the Incarnate Word.

The second six-week course: The Gospel of John and the Book of Revelation will complete the study of the Gospels. Participants will learn how John’s Gospel is very different from the other Gospels with its lofty spiritual vision, the use of symbolic language, long discourses, and dualistic expressions. Join our quest through this Gospel to discover a Word of Glory.

August ~ Blessing of First Fruits

From early times, first fruits were something special. They were the first taste of a new season’s produce with a promise of more variety and quantity to come. An end of the fast from fresh food and from a dwindling amount of last year’s harvest. First fruits were seen as sacred. The best portion is to be offered in thanksgiving to the Creator, and then shared with those most in need and with each other as a blessing from God.

As preparation for this blessing, each person should bring the “first harvest/first fruits” of this growing season’s labors.

Opening Prayer

Creator and ruler of the universe, we thank You for Your guidance. Help us to be attentive to Your ways as we offer You the first fruits of our labor. We ask this through Christ our Lord. Amen.

Before departing:

Closing Blessing

O Bountiful Giver of gifts, you provide what we need for abundant living. You give us the strength of our bodies so we may work in your vineyard, providing for ourselves and those you have placed in our care.

We offer you thanks for these beautiful and useful gifts, the first and best of what we have. Make us always mindful of your continuous symphony of life and love first found in the Garden of Eden by our parents Adam and Eve and the laborers of the land. Though our work has at times been difficult, we rejoice that trouble of every kind has been overcome with your help.

May all who join in tasing the first fruits of our labor know the joy of your immeasurable love. We ask this through Jesus Christ our Lord. Amen.

Excerpt from Consoling the Heart of Jesus Retreat - by Father Michael Gaitley

The Prayers of Mercy - According to St. Faustina, if we can’t do a deed of mercy or speak a word of mercy, we can always reach out to others spiritually through our prayers. How do we do this, specifically? From among the infinite ways of offering prayer of mercy, I’d like to recommend the Chaplet of Divine Mercy.

The chaplet is particularly effective as a prayer, because through it we offer the suffering of Jesus to the Father. In fact, because of this action, the chaplet is the most powerful prayer there is. One hearing this, perhaps someone might say, “Wait a minute, I thought the Mass was the most efficacious prayer.” That’s right. It is - and that’s the whole point. The chaplet is a kind of extension of the prayer of the Mass. For, in the chaplet, as in the Mass (and in union with the Mass), we offer the Body and Blood of Christ to the Father—along with our own joys, sorrows, sufferings, and prayers. Because of this connection between the chaplet and the Mass, I recommend that whenever we pray the chaplet, we consciously unite our praying of it to the prayer of all the Masses being said throughout the world.

Conclusion - Now let us reflect on what we have read during this retreat. In the beginning, I said, “All Jesus wants is for us to be his friend. All he wants is for us not to be afraid of him and to come to him...That’s all.” As we reflect, let’s think not only about how Jesus (the head) is asking us to trust in him and go to him in prayer but also about how he’s calling us to have the courage to lovingly go to him (the body) in the person of our neighbor. This truly is all he wants from us. In fact, it’s simply an expression of the two great commandments to love God and neighbor. May the Lord give us the grace to trust him and go to him, the head of the Mystical Body. May he heal our hearts and make them loving like his.

Prayers of the Chaplet of the Divine Mercy

2. Opening Prayers (optional): You expired, Jesus, but the source of life gushed forth with it; and the ocean of mercy opened up for the whole world. O font of life, unfathomable Divine Mercy, envelop the whole world and empty Yourself out upon us (Diary, 1319).
3. O Blood and Water, which gushed forth from the Heart of Jesus as a font of mercy for us, I trust in You (three times) (94).
4. The Our Father: Our Father, who art in heaven, hallowed be Thy name; Thy kingdom come; Thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our trespasses as we forgive those who trespass against us; and lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil. Amen.
5. The Hail Mary: Hail Mary, full of grace. The Lord is with you. Blessed are you among women, and blessed is the fruit of your womb, Jesus. Holy Mary, Mother of God, pray for us sinners, now and at the hour of our death. Amen.

6. On the “Our Father” said before each decade: Eternal Father, I offer You the Body and Blood, Soul and Divinity of Our dearly beloved Son, Our Lord Jesus Christ, in atonement for our sins and those of the whole world (470).
7. On the “Hail Mary” said after each decade: For the sake of His sorrowful Passion, have mercy on us and on the whole world.
8. Repeat “Eternal Father” and “For the Sake of His sorrowful Passion”:
   (Number 6 & 7) Prayers for four more decades.
9. After 5 decades, the concluding doxology (three times): Holy God, Holy Mighty One, Holy Immortal One, have mercy on us and on the whole world.
10. Closing Prayer (optional): Eternal God, in whom mercy is endless and the treasury of compassion inexhaustible, look kindly upon us, and increase Your mercy in us, that in difficult moments, we might not despair, nor become despondent, but with great confidence, submit ourselves to Your holy will, which is Love and Mercy itself. Amen (550).

HOW TO RECITE THE CHAPLET OF MERCY

The Chaplet of Mercy is recited using ordinary rosary beads of five decades. At the National Shrine of The Divine Mercy in Stockbridge, Massachusetts, the Chaplet is preceded by two opening prayers from the Diary of St. Faustina and followed by a closing prayer.
He Who Humbles Himself Shall be Exalted

The following sermon was written by Father Kram from the Twenty-second Sunday in Ordinary Time, Cycle C.

Human beings like to play the parts of characters they are not. Some individuals build themselves up to hide some deep seated insecurity. Bullies push people around but when challenged, turn into cowards and sometimes even burst into tears.

Still others rely on status symbols such as membership in an exclusive club, furs and diamonds for the wife, a Mercedes in which to drive around.

Sometimes it is hard to tell what the individual is really like.

The late Bishop Sheen once compared human beings to onions. You peel off the layers one by one to see what the person inside is really like, but when you reach the center you sometimes find that there is nothing left.

This is not hard to understand because one of the strongest drives in our nature is the desire to be recognized and appreciated.

Even animals share this with us.

For example, the famous medical missionary Dr. Sweitzer had a dog of which he was very fond. When the dog misbehaved, the doctor would punish him by simply ignoring him, and this made the animal totally miserable. Not matter how much he wagged his tail, nobody cared.

Even horse trainers have a technique. Rather than breaking a horse by beating it or jerking it off its feet with a tight rope, they use touch and body language and a slack nose. They get in touch with the feelings of the horse and show it what they intend.

The horse responds by calming down and nuzzling up close as if to ask, “What do you want me to do next?” in one demonstration in a rodeo arena a trainer tamed a previously untrainable horse so easily that some of the seasoned old horsemen who witnessed it were touched to the point of tears. The technique meant everything.

Is it not also true that we feel more confident and perform better when our work meets with someone’s approval? Praise and appreciation can bring out the best in us but if our sincere efforts are never recognized or are continually criticized, we will eventually become discouraged and we will quit trying.

Sometimes self doubt or lack of self esteem can do strange things to us.

For example, I once jokingly referred to a nurse’s aide as not being a nurse, meaning that she was an aide. This made her so angry that she reported me to her supervisor and accused me of calling her a worthless nobody and of almost causing her to have a heart attack.

It must have been some serious unresolved conflict that I did not know about that made her so touchy. Her reaction was totally unexpected but it taught me to be more sensitive to the feelings of others, including those dear to me and not to take anything for granted.

Now looking at it from the other side.

What can we do to keep going when our best efforts go unrewarded or when the pettiness of others keeps putting obstacles in our path?

People say rude things. They make promises they don’t keep. They don’t do their fair share of work.

Remember that what is outside of us can hurt us only to the extent that we let it. We are not responsible for the misdeeds of others. Sometimes our best defense is a strong offense in the form of patient endurance and renewed devotion to duty. No one can stop us if we won’t quit. We can often win others over if we just kindly lead them on.

We can learn to listen first to understand and not just to reply, “I understand, but I disagree, and here’s why,” goes a lot farther than, “you know better than that and you need to get it straight.”

If there is a problem we first try to fix it. If we can’t fix it, we can change the way we look at it. With most problems the solution is 90 percent attitude and only 10 percent problem. A change in attitude makes many a problem go away.

And we can pray for humility. Humility is that special virtue which helps us to deal with the faults of others by helping us to admit that we are not without faults ourselves and that often the faults we most resent in others may be our own worst.

Our greatest example of prosperity in adversity is our own Lord Jesus. He emptied himself of his divinity and took upon himself our humanity and became like us in every way but sin.

So if we are like onions, let us grow inside, so that when our outer layers are peeled away, our likeness to him may be revealed.

Lord Jesus, thank you for humbling yourself so that in you we might be exalted. Help us to drop our pretenses and admit our limitations and see the truth about ourselves.

Grant that we too might one day have a place at your banquet, even if it be the lowest.

Amen.

Two Years After Harvey: Cathedral Continues With Renovations

The continued effects of Hurricane Harvey are especially evident at this current stage of renovation in the Cathedral of Our Lady of Victory. Due to the extensive water damage, the murals along the ceiling had to be removed and are being re-created on new panels. The pews are being deconstructed, rebuilt, re-stained and sealed. The Cathedral walls are being carefully cleaned of mold and the wood restored as the walls are painted a lighter color, all the while safeguarding the integrity of the original murals on the walls. All of the statues are being reconditioned as well.

100 YEARS OF SERVICE—The Catholic Daughters of the Americas Court St. Ann #369 celebrated 100 years of Unity & Charity on July 13 at the Cathedral of Our Lady of Victory. Mass was celebrated with Bishop Brendan Cahill and Msgr. John Peters (Texas State Junior Catholic Daughters Chaplain) co-celebrated. Following Mass, a reception and dinner was held at the Cathedral Center. Scrapbooks from throughout the years were on display. Court St. Ann was inaugurated May 4, 1919, as Daughters of Isabella with 56 charter members. In April 1921, at the 9th Biennial National Convention, the name of the organization was changed to Catholic Daughters of the America. Later at the 38th National Convention it became the Catholic Daughters of the Americas. Texas Faith Leaders say Chaplains Shouldn’t be Banned From Executions

By Carol Zimmermann
Catholic News Service

WASHINGTON (CNS) — More than 180 faith leaders in Texas, including 18 Catholics, signed a statement sent to the Texas Department of Criminal Justice July 23 asking the agency to change its policy banning prison chaplains from execution chambers.

“Clergy have the right to minister to those who have placed themselves in their care, up to and including the moment of death. The state cannot, and should not attempt to, regulate spiritual solace,” the faith leaders said.

The signers representing several religious traditions, including Episcopalian, Evangelical Lutheran Church of America, Presbyterian, Reform Judaism, United Church of Christ, United Methodist and Buddhist, urged the state agency’s officials to reconsider a policy it adopted this spring. Women religious, priests, deacons and laity were among the Catholic signers.

The group acknowledged that they have differing opinions on the death penalty but said they are “united in recognizing that the right of condemned people to spiritual comfort at the moment of death is a long-standing and widely recognized religious practice.”

On April 3, just five days after the U.S. Supreme Court blocked the execution of Texas death-row inmate Patrick Murphy because his Buddhist religious adviser wasn’t permitted to be present, state officials announced its ban of all prison chaplains from the chamber during executions but allowed inmates to choose spiritual advisers to be in the viewing room.

The Texas Department of Criminal Justice said the change in its execution protocol was in direct response to the high court ruling and said it would only allow security personnel in the execution chamber in future executions.

The statement’s signers urged the agency leaders to reconsider this position saying their concerns are “moral, ethical and rooted in our nation’s constitutional guarantee of the free exercise of religion.”

They pointed out that the “physical companionship of a chaplain in the execution chamber is a small but vital form of human compassion in an otherwise dehumanizing process. The presence of a chaplain or spiritual adviser in the viewing room is no substitute for this direct ministry.”

They also said the agency’s decision infringes on the religious liberty rights of chaplains and spiritual advisers, saying: “Placing a wall between a prisoner and clergy violates the religious liberty that has characterized our nation since its founding.”

A month before the high court’s ruling about the Texas death-row inmate, the court had allowed the execution of Domineque Ray, an Alabama Muslim, to proceed even though Ray had appealed the state’s decision to deny an imam’s presence at his execution.

Justice Brett Kavanaugh – who opposed Ray’s stay of execution but supported a stay for the Texas inmate – explained his reasons May 13. He said Ray, who was executed in February, had not claimed unequal religious treatment under the First Amendment and his demand for an imam’s presence came too late. He said Murphy, whose execution was stayed, raised an equal-treatment claim and made his request for a Buddhist adviser’s presence a month before his scheduled execution. At the time, Texas policy only allowed Christian or Muslim ministers to be present.

Two U.S. bishops called the Supreme Court’s refusal to allow an imam to be present at Ray’s execution Feb. 7 was “unjust treatment” that is “disturbing to people of all faiths.”

The Texas interfaith statement points out that in Texas, death row prisoners are denied contact visitation and spend 23 hours a day in solitary confinement.

Texas has 10 executions scheduled from August 15 until early November. Last year, it executed 13 of the 25 people put to death nationwide.

Where is God Calling Me?

A call is a very precious gift from God. All of us are called to holiness and to help bring about the Reign of God. Some of us are called to do this through the consecrated (religious) life. As Sisters of the Incarnate Word and Blessed Sacrament, we carry out the request of Jesus to our foundress Venerable Jeanne de Matel to carry His Name to the ends of the earth and make Him known and loved. Who knows? He may be calling you to join us in this mission!

How Do I Know if God is Calling Me to Be a Sister?

Some signs that God might be calling you to become a Sister of the Incarnate Word and Blessed Sacrament are the possession of the following requirements:

- a single Catholic woman, between the ages of 18 and 40, with-
  - sound judgment;
  - reasonable health and emotional maturity;
  - moral integrity and strength of character;
  - a true religious spirit that indicates the desire to grow through a life of prayer;
  - faithfulness to one’s life commitment and apostolic generosity;

Papa: Dar gracias a Dios por el don de la creación nos lleva a respetarla

Por Junno Arocho Esteves
Catholic News Service
CIUDAD DEL VATICANO (CNS) — Los seres humanos están llamados a alabar a Dios por su regalo de la creación, no a ser depredadores para saquear la tierra y todo lo que contiene, dijo el papa Francisco.

En un mensaje enviado el 8 de julio a los participantes de una conferencia italiana sobre las consecuencias de la deforestación en la Amazonía, el papa dijo que la situación actual en la selva sudamericana “es un triste paradigma de lo que está sucediendo en muchas partes del planeta”.

Es “una mentalidad ciega y destructiva que prefiere el beneficio a la justicia; pone de relieve la actitud depredadora con la que el hombre interactúa con la naturaleza”, dijo. “Por favor, no os olvidéis que ¡la justicia social y la ecología están profundamente interconectadas!”

El foro internacional patrocinado por la Comunidad Laudato Si’, una asociación inspirada por la encíclica del papa sobre el medio ambiente, dice que la Amazonía es la clave de la conversión ecológica para obtener una “mejor comprensión de ecología integral y obtener el conocimiento de vivir en armonía con la creación”.

La conferencia se llevó a cabo en la ciudad de Amatrice, en el centro de Italia, que fue derrumbada en 2016 después de que un terremoto de magnitud 6.2 azotara la región. Amatrice fue la ciudad más afectada, con 234 de las 290 muertes estimadas, según la oficina italiana de Protección Civil.

CIUDAD DEL VATICANO (CNS) — El cardenal Jaime Ortega Alamino, ex arzobispo de La Habana, un hombre con orgullo por su regalo de ser cubano y quien trabajó por una mayor libertad para su iglesia y para poner un fin al bloqueo económico de Estados Unidos contra su país, murió el 26 de julio a la edad de 82 años.

Por su trabajo en la Arquidiócesis de La Habana durante casi 35 años, el cardenal asumió un papel prominente como portavoz de los católicos cubanos en asuntos nacionales e internacionales, pero también dedicó gran parte de su energía a apoyar a los católicos activos de la isla y aletarlos como misioneros a sus vecinos.

El cardenal Ortega aprovechó toda oportunidad para suplicar al gobierno de los Estados Unidos que pusiera fin al bloqueo económico impuesto contra su país, reprimiendo la posición de papas sucesivos de que el bloqueo mantenía a miles de personas pobres y al mismo tiempo sin lograr que el gobierno cubano aumentara la libertad y los derechos humanos.

En 2014, cuando quedó claro que el presidente de los Estados Unidos, Barack Obama, podría estar dispuesto disminuir las restricciones del embargo, el papa Francisco le entregó dos cartas al cardenal Ortega, pidiéndole que le entregara una a Raúl Castro y la otra a Obama.

Como figura pública, el cardenal Ortega también dedicó mucha energía a presionar a su gobierno que permitiera que la Iglesia Católica en Cuba tuviera una voz pública y ayudara a los pobres.

El acceso limitado de la Iglesia Católica en los espacios públicos no frenó el esfuerzo del cardenal Ortega para evangelizar; simplemente significaba que sabía que compartir el Evangelio era algo que tenía que comenzar poco a poco, implicaba un contacto personal y con frecuencia, y oportunidades de servicio.

En su mensaje, el papa dijo que la ubicación de la conferencia era “un signo de esperanza”, así como un “signo de cercanía a tantos hermanos y hermanas que aún viven en la encrucijada entre la memoria de una tragedia espantosa y una reconstrucción que es lenta en irse”.

So how does one make a pilgrimage? It begins with intent, a devotion, and a destination that fulfills the intention and devotion. Intention can be to pray for the needs of oneself or a friend or a family member. It could be to enrich a particular devotion to the Blessed Mother or a particular saint or saints. It could be simply the desire to travel. Devotion points the direction. Praying for healing or a love of our Blessed Mother will lead you to a Marian Pilgrimage that goes to many shrines dedicated to her and her appearances which include Fatima and Lourdes. Perhaps your intent is to walk in the footsteps of Jesus and pray in the very places where he was born and where he died and the tomb that he laid in for three days. To delve into the saints of our Faith, a pilgrimage to Italy would be a good place to start.

How will you go? Group travel is an option many pilgrims choose. You travel with a priest and a group of people who are seeking similar devotions. By traveling with a priest, the group will have daily Mass at wonderful, beautiful and meaningful churches. Whether Mass is at a chapel at the Basilica of Lourdes, or a chapel in St. Peter’s or in the Holy Sepulchre in Jerusalem, it will be a memory that is cherished for a lifetime. Group travel works well for international destinations because many of the planning details are already done and ensures that you are not missing any of the important sacred sites of the journey. The beauty of each other for years, often traveling together more than once.

International pilgrimages not only enrich our faith, but they also expose us to different cultures, food, and people. To understand the faith of a people, you need to understand the culture and the history of the country. This unifies us in the Catholic Church because we are a universal Church. International pilgrimages that are 10 to 12 days in length include Marian Shrines (Fatima and Lourdes), shrines of Italy, shrines of Eastern Europe (Poland-Czech Republic), and the Holy Land. Shorter trips that are 7 to 8 days because there are many shrines dedicated to our Blessed Mother and our holy saints.

There are many places to make a pilgrimage to grow your faith and devotion, whether abroad, or within the United States, or even within the State of Texas.

Texas has wonderful opportunities for pilgrimage. There’s a beautiful devotion to Our Lady of San Juan del Valle in San Juan, Texas. Many pilgrims make their way to this minor basilica to pray for healing.

You can make a short visit to San Antonio and visit San Fernando Cathedral, the Basilica of the Little Flower, and the Grotto (a replica of the Lourdes Grotto) at the Oblate College of Theology. A visit to the Co-Cathedral in Houston and the Holy Cross Chapel on Main Street, which is full of relics in the middle of town, is a great day trip. Another great day trip option would be the Painted Churches (over 5 of them) in the Diocese of Victoria.

We are all pilgrims on a lifelong journey to Heaven by way of seeking holiness and a deeper faith in God. Wherever you journey, do it with a pilgrim heart.
