Mass of Thanksgiving

Wednesday, November 25th at 7:00PM

All families are asked to bring canned goods and non-perishable food items for our offertory procession.

OUR LORD JESUS CHRIST, KING OF THE UNIVERSE

First Reading: Daniel 7:13-14

Daniel describes the one who will appear on the clouds of heaven and receive glory. People of every language will serve this one, and his leadership and community will be his forever.

Second Reading: Revelation 1:5-8

Jesus is so powerful, he is the ruler of kings. He loved us enough to free us from sin, and so he will be glorified forever. He will appear again and be seen by all the people of the earth. God calls himself the first and last, "the One who is and who was and who is to come," reminding all people that God will remain with us always.

Gospel: John 18:33b-37

Pilate asks Jesus if he is a king. Jesus explains that his kingdom is not of this world. Pilate asks again if Jesus is a king, to which he replies, "I came into the world to testify to the truth. Anyone committed to the truth hears my voice."

The Parish: A Family of Families

The vitality and mission of the local Church is closely linked to the formation and evangelization of families

By Supreme Chaplain Archbishop William E. Lori
(Printed in Knights of Columbus, "Columbia" August, 2015)

At the diocesan level, this means evaluating what is in place to help couples in their marriages. This includes a marriage preparation program, a natural family planning office, and programs and resources designed to strengthen and support family life in these challenging times. How effective are such programs in helping parishes reach out to couples, especially those who may be struggling or in the critical early years of their marriages?

SUPPORT ONE ANOTHER

God has called most of the people in our congregations to the vocation of holy matrimony and family life. Nonetheless, how many homilies are addressed to the concerns of families? How many convey the authentic teaching of the Church on marriage and family, or hold up the high ideals of married life in the Church and society? How many encourage struggling families or address young people? Again, I ask these questions not only of others but of myself. The fallout from the recent Supreme Court decision on same-sex "marriage" sets in sharp relief the evangelical and catechetical challenges that are before us.

An important principle comes to mind: No one can faithfully, joyfully and fruitfully live any vocation in the life of the Church alone and isolated. As a bishop and priest, I need the prayerful support of other bishops and priests, often in small informal gatherings where we can pray, listen to God's Word and speak from the heart. Such opportunities are also necessary for parish families. It might be a woman's group that gets together to study Scripture and seeks to apply it to their lives and marriages. It might be small groups of couples that get together to pray and discuss the art of parenting. Couples also need support in being formed in the faith so that they can form their children in faith.

We know how well Father Michael J. McGivney knew and loved the people of the parishes he served. He understood their joys and sorrows, leaving plenty of evidence of how engaged he was in their lives. In founding the Knights of Columbus, he involved husbands and fathers more deeply in the faith. He reached out in concern to widows and their children. In these and many other ways, he envisioned the Knights as a way to transform our parishes into extended families. How important, therefore, that our K of C council meetings and local programming help to build up family life and make each parish "a family of families."

Not long before he died, St. John Paul II spoke to pastors and young couples in four parishes in Rome. "Guide with tender concern those families in difficulty or in precarious conditions," he said, "helping them to understand and carry out God's authentic plan for marriage and the family." We should take this parting advice to heart.

Happy Thanksgiving!!!

Fr. Charles, Fr. Joselin, Deacon Tom, Deacon Dennis and I wish all our parish families a very Happy Thanksgiving. Celebrate Thanksgiving with all your loved ones. God Bless You.
